Wife Pleads For Return Of Husband

BY BRIAN O'CONNELL

A young Victoria mother last night appealed to Victoria police to bring back her amnesia-stricken husband who turned up in Winnipeg Monday after being missing for six days.

"I want him back," sobbed Mrs. Allan Siemens, 1134 Pandora, wife of the 22-year-old milkman who disappeared November 25.

Mr. Siemens is at present staying with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ross, in Winnipeg.

Told last night he was still in Winnipeg, Mrs. Siemens asked anxiously, "Are they going to bring him back? Do you have the address?" How can she get him back is the big question in the mind of the young mother.

"The last time the police wouldn't do anything for me. They said they would have to wait 30 days so they could charge him with desertion but added that even then I would have to find him before they would do anything," she said.

Mrs. Siemens said it was the third time since January this year that her husband has disappeared suddenly. His last attack took him to Cypress, Man.

A driver with Palm Dairies Limited in Victoria, Siemens was last seen when he picked up a truck load of milk at 5 a.m. on November 25. The truck was later found abandoned.

In Winnipeg, the amnesia victim said that as far as he can remember he never saw a milk truck in Victoria.

"As far as I know, I was driving a steel truck," he said.

Mrs. Siemens reported that he was wearing his milkman's uniform, a pair of rubbers and a sport shirt when he vanished.

"The last time he took our car," she said, "We thought it was funny he didn't take our car this time because he had the keys in his pocket."

The Siemens have a young daughter and another child is expected in January.

"I can't go to work or anything," she said, explaining that she had to move from their home because the rent was due.

She is living with a girl friend now but will have to move out shortly when the friend's husband returns.

"I can't go home to my parents again," she said on the verge of tears. "My folks won't let me go home unless I get Al in the hospital.

"I have been going home in the past when Al went away but just when I got settled there he would turn up. My folks say they are tired of it."

Mrs. Siemens reported she had arranged with a doctor to give her husband treatments but if he won't agree to them he can't be forced to take them.

Siemens told the Canadian Press Thursday he had tried to join the navy last Monday and will be going down to HMCS Chippewa, Winnipeg naval barracks, today to find out definitely if he can get back in.

"They phoned me Thursday and requested me to come down," he said. "I hope I can. It's the only life."

His wife said: "He should know he can't get back in the navy."

He was honorably discharged from the navy last December because of a sudden loss of memory believed caused by an old head injury.

Asked in Winnipeg if he remembered "blacking out" at all, Siemens said he remembered having a short blank period in Victoria, but added that he distinctly remembered going to Vancouver and hitch-hiking a ride on a moving van to Winnipeg.

"I just got in the truck and didn't have any specific destination," said Siemens. "I got off at Winnipeg and decided to stay here a while."

RCMP Veterans Honored

Long service and coronation medals were presented yesterday to 27 members and former members of the RCMP by Attorney-General Robert Bonner during a special ceremony at headquarters. Shown above immediately following ceremony are Assistant Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac, Staff-Sergeant D. C. Ashby, veteran of 27 years in the force who received coronation medal; Mr. Bonner, and Sergeant D. G. Mead, who received long service medal in recognition of more than 30 years in the force. Sgt. Mead and Sgt. Ashby had the longest service records among the group honored yesterday. (Story on Page 21.)

U.S. Diver Drowned Seeking Depth Record

Attorney Tracked to 400 Feet In Free-Swimming Descent

MIAMI (UP)—An amateur diver vanished in the Atlantic deeps Thursday after going down 400 feet to seek a free-swimming record that cost him his life.

Hope Root, 32-year-old attorney, may have become the victim of the rapture of the deep, diving experts said, or he may have suffered an organic attack under the enormous pressure at the 400-foot mark.

Root slipped off the vessel Arbalete smiling confidently with 74 pounds of aqua-lung gear and weights.

Scientists aboard a University of Miami boat watched his progress by fathometer and said he went down 400 feet, leveled off and then apparently sank to the bottom.

Record free-swimming dive was made by Frenchman Maurice Fargues in the Mediterranean. Fargues also died in his dive in which he initialled a blackboard at 396 feet.

Root, a "daredevil" from his childhood, went down four miles off the beach at 12.30 p.m. He had a 20-minute air supply. A coast guard cutter, the Arbalete and a University of Miami marine laboratory boat started a search at 1.15 p.m.

Later the coast guard announced that it was sending a helicopter out "to look for the body." However, some persons still had hope that Root was swimming in rough waters.

Another diver said he easily could have been a victim of the rapture of the deep, a type of intoxication caused by the pressure which reaches about 200 pounds per square inch at 400 feet.

(An Associated Press dispatch said Root had reached a depth of 300 feet in his fatal dive.

(The dispatch pointed out that in free swimming dives, such as Root made, a face mask, foot fins and a compressed air tank are used, but the diver swims freely. He has no heavy diving suit or air pump.)

Churchill Meets Laniel

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (Reuters) — Prime Minister Churchill greeted Premier Laniel on his arrival by plane Thursday and hustled him off in a car without even allowing time for a prepared speech.

The two leaders, who will open talks with President Eisenhower late today, drove off under armed escort to the Mid-Ocean Club—site of the four-day conference. Eisenhower will fly here this morning.

It was learned the three leaders have agreed in advance that Russia's agreement to a four-power foreign ministers' meeting will be the first subject discussed.

Foreign Secretaries Eden and Bidault and State Secretary Dulles will meet first to lay the groundwork for the Big Three discussions.

Discussions will go on almost continually in formal sessions and at informal meetings—sometimes among all three leaders and often between only two of them. Eisenhower plans to return to Washington late Monday. Churchill and Laniel will not depart until later in the week.

Churchill will take time off after the conference to do some painting.

Spokesmen for the three delegations Thursday night outlined four basic purposes of their meeting:

To assure Soviet leaders of the West's peaceful intentions.

To explore the "if, when and how" of possible contacts between the Western leaders and Russia.

To strengthen material defenses against Communist aggression in the Far East or Europe.

To remove existing and potential causes of friction and dis-unity among Western powers.

Atrocities Condemned In UN Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The UN assembly yesterday approved a resolution condemning atrocities by any government and expressing "grave concern" at reports of Red atrocities in Korea. The Russians protested with cries of "fake" and "libel."

The final vote was 42 to five with only the Russian bloc opposing the resolution. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, said the verdic' supported American charges that Chinese and North Koreans, acting on a conscious policy laid down by the Communists, tortured or killed 38,000 UN soldiers and Korean civilians.

After the vote Russia's Andrei Vishinsky denounced the charges as "a falsification, a fake and utterly spurious."

The resolution was submitted by the United States, Britain, France, Australia and Turkey. Ten Arab and Asian nations abstained.

India's delegate, V. K. Krishna Menon, said "not participating" when the roll was called. India did not take part because it is chairman of the neutral nations' repatriation commission in Korea.

The views of some of the Arab-Asian bloc were expressed by Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, foreign minister of Pakistan, who explained he was abstaining because no opportunity was given for both sides to be heard.

THE RESOLUTION

The resolution:

"1. Expresses its grave concern at reports and information that North Korean and Chinese Communist forces have, in a large number of instances, employed inhuman practices against the heroic soldiers of forces under the United Nations command in Korea and against the civilian population of Korea;

"2. Condemns the commission by any governments or authorities of murder, mutilation, torture and other atrocious acts against captured military personnel or civilian populations, as a violation of rules of international law and basic standards of conduct and morality and as affronting human rights and the dignity and worth of the human person."

Union Mob, Police In Fierce Clash

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—An enraged mob of some 1,000 AFL maritime unionists clashed in a brief but bloody fight with police riot squad members on the waterfront here yesterday as authorities nipped an inter-union riot in the bud.

The AFL men, members of the sailors, marine firemen and cooks and stewards unions, marched on Pier 39 to "get" rival leftwing independent unionists who earlier had beaten up several AFL men.

Their target was a group of about 150 members of Harry Bridges' longshore union and Hugh Bryson's Independent National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards, gathered on the pier to picket the passenger-freighter Ss. Aleutian, centre of a jurisdictional fight between the AFL stewards and NUMCS.

BOTH SIDES ARMED

Both sides were armed with clubs, brickbats and bludgeons torn from the wooden railings of the pier.

All available police officers were rushed to the waterfront when the battle royal appeared imminent and the clash occurred when the advancing AFL men reached a human wall of police standing between them and their rivals.

Blood flowed as police riot sticks bounced off the skulls of unionists who tried to rush the police wall. A steady, drizzling rain added to the confusion.

At least five union men were hurt in the scuffle which lasted about six minutes. Six unionists were arrested.

Labor Union Unity 'Explored' by TLC

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's largest central union body—the 580,000-member Trades and Labor Congress—made a move yesterday towards closer relations among the nation's four main labor groups representing about 1,100,000 union workers.

However, the TLC said the step—appointment of an exploratory committee—does not mean that unification of the organizations is in prospect.

Appointment of the committee was a follow-up to a resolution adopted at the TLC convention here last fall, which called for non-raiding on other union groups as "the first step towards closer relations and eventual organic unity."

ABOUT-FACE

That resolution and yesterday's action by the TLC executive council represented an about-face from a TLC step just two years ago, when it broke up a continuing four-way committee set up chiefly to make joint submissions to governments.

Organizations on that committee—and which would be involved in any labor unity—were the TLC, the 375,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of labor with about 100,000 members and the independent railway brotherhoods with 40,000.

An announcement said:

"The executive council gave no indication that complete unity of all labor organizations would be automatic.

"The principles and policies of the TLC conflict with those of other organizations in some instances, and of course the committee would be bound by convention decision on these matters."

U.S. Asks Interview

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States sent a note to the Canadian government Thursday asking it to arrange for the Senate internal security subcommitee to question Igor Gouzenko.

The message asked that Senator William Jenner (Rep., Ind.) and subcommittee counsel Robert Morris be allowed to quiz Gouzenko in Canada. Jenner is the subcommittee chairman.

Dulles' note, the third in this exchange with Canada, said that Jenner's group would abide by Canada's decision about what could or could not be published from Gouzenko's testimony.

Society Protests 'Tax on Worship'

Provincial government policy of taxing productions of the Victoria Choral Society—particularly those of a religious nature—was sharply criticized last night by a society official.

The society was informed this week by Finance Minister Einar Gunderson that a 5 per cent amusement tax will be levied on its production of Hadyn's Creation" on December 14.

In a brief presented to the government in October, the society asked for exemption from the amusement tax on grounds that its productions are a cultural force.

This is the same reason, it explained, why symphony orchestras all over North America are granted exemption from amusement taxes.

On three occasions in the past two years, it was stated, productions of the Victoria Symphony Society, in which the Choral Society took part, were not subject to the tax. On the other hand tax has been charged on Choral Society productions in which the Symphony Orchestra participated.

Graham Steed, director of the Choral Society, said that it was like taxing an act of worship to tax a production like Handel's "Messiah" which was produced last year and made subject to the amusement tax.

The work has often been presented in churches, but it is more effective when produced in a theatre where full symphony and full choir can take part, he said.

Mr. Steed charged the government with being "tax happy" after being told by a government official that when the society uses a theatre "we lose the revenue that we'd ordinarily get from the movie you're replacing that day."

No-Confidence Motion Lost

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons last night defeated by a vote of 153 to 56 a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the government. The vote ended the three-week-long throne speech debate and cleared the way for immediate consideration of government legislation.

Liberals, CCF and the three independent members in the House voted against the motion, which stated Canada's welfare depends on free competition and urged government policies to "restore" markets and promote world trade. The Social Credit party voted with the Progressive Conservatives.

It was the second vote of the day on a non-confidence motion. Earlier, 11 Progressive Conservatives joined with the Social Credit party in supporting a Social Credit motion that was defeated 193 to 25.

Queen Helps Birthday Celebration

ABOARD SS. GOTHIC (AP) (Reuters). The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh brightened up a quiet day at sea Thursday by attending a shipboard birthday party for Vice-Admiral E. M. C. Abel Smith, who is in charge of the Royal vessel.

As the Royal luxury liner plowed on toward the Fiji Islands, the Royal couple joined the mid-day party in the ship's library to the tune of "Happy Birthday" from a Royal Marine band.

They admired a sailor doll which the admiral exhibited proudly. He received it as a birthday gift from Lady Pamela Mountbatten, the Queen's lady-in-waiting.

The escort cruiser Sheffield, paralleling the Gothic's course under the hot Pacific sun, ran up flags to signal birthday greetings.

The Queen and the duke have two more weeks to relax before the formalities begin again at Fiji December 17.

Canadian Troops in Germany Not as Bad as Reported, Padre Says

The story of the Canadian 27th Brigade morale problem in Germany last year has only been half told, according to Capt. J. A. Davidson, former padre of the First Canadian Highland Battalion.

Home on leave after a year's service at Chatham Barracks, Hannover, Padre Davidson admitted things had been "pretty rough," but said it was not all bad.

He said only about 20 per cent of the troops caused trouble. They were mostly young lads who were looking for adventure and were just plain bored, he said.

"The large majority were a credit to the army and to their country," the padre said.

Much of the trouble, he said, was a "gang of young lads who were away from the restraints of their homes and thrown into an atmosphere of moral squalor."

"It takes more guts to live a decent life in post-war Europe than in post-war Canada," he said.

Voluntary church attendance, he said was from 10 to 30 per cent of the troops at Chatham Barracks.

"Do 10 per cent of the young men in Victoria between 18 and 30 go to church on Sundays?" he asked.

Padre Davidson said Christmas, 1952, was one of the worst periods for trouble in his particular area.

"It was the roughest Christmas I ever had and I spent Christmas, 1944, in the line as a combat soldier," he said.

But while the foolish drinking and horseplay was going on, he said, he saw the best voluntary attendance at church that Christmas.

"One gang was singing Christmas carols in church while another gang was kicking the windows out of the wet canteen," he said.

CAPT. J. A. DAVIDSON

Padre Davidson drew considerable comment over an article he wrote for an army magazine in which he described the real troublemaker as "the damn fool drinker."

A United Church minister, he was ordained after the war. He studied for the ministry at St. Andrew's College, Saskatoon, under the DVA after serving four years overseas with the RCCS during the Second World War.

He is 34, married, and has three children. His family has been living in the married quarters at Work Point Barracks while he has been in Germany.

He will be posted to Petawawa as a garrison chaplain after completion of his leave here.

Lieut. S. J. Bichard, 1982 Haultain Street, who returned to Victoria last week from Germany, said morale of Canadian occupation troops is now at a high level.

Reports published a few months ago criticizing the behavior of Canadian troops in Germany showed only the bad side of things and ignored the good, he said. There are always a few men in every military unit who fail to behave properly, he added, but on the whole the Canadian soldier in Germany is well behaved and well liked.

Germany, according to Lieutenant Bichard, is making good progress with its reconstruction programs. When the Canadians arrived in Hannover there were no lights in the devastated city, he said. Today, however, the streets are as well lit as the streets of Victoria.

He paid high tribute to the energy and industry of the German people.

Lieutenant Bichard, who was in Germany last Christmas, is looking forward to spending this Christmas with his wife and 11-year-old daughter and four-year-old son.

With G. E. Mortimore

NOW we have found a dog who goes to the doctor by himself when he feels ill.

The dog is Saxon, a year-old Boxer belonging to Alderman Brent Murdoch. First of all Saxon was taken to Dr. J. W. Smith's animal clinic by his owners, as a patient.

Some weeks later, Mr. Murdoch had a call from Dr. Smith's assistant. The dog had gone to the clinic on his own. Examination showed that he had a slight ailment that needed medical care.

Mr. Murdoch lives on Dalhousie Street, about a mile away.

Another month or two passed, and the same thing happened again. Saxon turned up at the pet clinic. It transpired that once more he was off-color and needed treatment. Nothing serious, but enough to make the visit necessary.

I happened to be in the clinic fetching one of my dogs when Saxon turned up for the third time, and Mr. Murdoch came to collect him.

This time, however, the dog seemed to be in good health. Is Saxon turning into a hypochondriac, or does he just like the company of the other animals in Dr. Smith's back room?

On the newsstands now is the December number of New Liberty magazine, containing the prize short story "Bright Flowers for Elsie," by Victoria writer Gwen Cash. It's a neat, savage little yarn. Next month it will be in the running with 11 other stories for a $500 grand prize . . . For people who want to make their own fresh cookies, but are too lazy to mix them, rolls of cookie dough are now on the market here. The pre-mixed cookies keep indefinitely under refrigeration. Housewives slice them off and bake. My wife baked me some the other day, and they were delicious. They're locally made . . . A book called "I Believe in People" will be published soon. Was it written by a ghost, maybe?

Strange things happen in the kitchen sometimes when a wife is away. Consider the case of department store Santa Claus Jack Worthington, whose wife is visiting England. Jack saw a host of funny little objects bobbing around in a stew he was making for himself. They were matches that had spilled from his pocket as he leaned over the pot. Jack carefully picked out all the matches and began ladling the stew into a bowl. Then a thought struck him—what about the box? Sure enough, the box was in the stew as well, looking a shade soggy and unserviceable. Jack hauled out the matchbox and ate the stew. With all that phosphorus in him, he had better not bump his head in any doorways, or he might burst into flames . . . Victoria SPCA, currently driving for funds, has received a sizeable gift from Victoria Dog Obedience Club in memory of the late Dr. Tom Jones, noted surgeon and animal lover. Incidentally, the fact that we have a dog obedience club here provoked an eastern publication to gales of mirth recently. The easterners seem to think the members are dogs, banded together for the purpose of training people . . . Colleague John Green has installed safety belts in his car. Authorities say accident toll could be sharply reduced if every car had them. John means to wear the belts and get his family to do the same. I wonder if he will install an aircraft-type sign that flashes: "We are now coming in to park. No smoking. Fasten seat belts."

Chief Mungo Martin is holding a three-day potlatch at the opening of his new house in Thunderbird Park this month. I'm a little worried about it.

Part of the potlach ceremony is the giving away of goods. At one time, big chiefs gave away all their belongings to show how important they were. The catch was that those who received the goods were obliged to hold a potlatch themselves later, or lose face.

The local ceremony is authentic, and it will include a certain amount of gift-giving. What if an innocent bystander, or a poor newspaperman, unwittingly accepts a gift, and is thereby compelled to give away, in turn, all his worldly goods?

It wouldn't take long, anyway. I can picture myself standing on the roof of my house, throwing down my typewriter, some pencil stubs, old magazines and shoes with holes in them, to the assembled mob.

Likened to B.C. Sasquatch

Shaggy Snowman Clue in Mystery?

Out of the tiny kingdom of Nepal under the snowy eaves of Tibet, the roof of the world, came a story recently that may shed light on a mystery that has haunted British Columbians for decades.

The story claims that somewhere in Nepal there is a shaggy snowman, a creature half human and half animal from the upper slopes of the high peaks, living in captivity.

The snowman, called "abominable snowman" by the Sherpa bearers who have accompanied the Everest expeditions, may be akin to British Columbia's mystery men of the mountains, the Sasquatch.

TALES BROUGHT BACK

Almost every Everest expedition brought back tales of the snowman. As recently as last year one of the native bearers on the unsuccessful Swiss expedition claimed to have been attacked by one of the hairy, shuffling snowmen.

Since the first attempt to climb Everest was made at the turn of the century, stories of the sub-human creature of the upper wastes have drifted back to civilization.

Lieut.-Col. C. K. Howard-Bury in 1921 reported his Everest party had found at 21,000 feet "tracks very like those of a barefooted man."

The tracks were more than 12 inches in length. Zoological experts said the tracks fitted the description of the langur monkey, a brown-haired animal with a black face.

NO PLACE FOR MONKEYS

But who ever heard of a monkey roaming the snows at 21,000 feet, asked the mountaineers. And who ever heard of a monkey with feet 12 inches long?

If the snowman does exist, there may be definite substance to the persistent tales of hairy giants glimpsed in many forests in British Columbia.

The most persistent of the B.C. stories centre around the Harrison Lake region, where the Sasquatch has been reported scores of times by the Indians of the Chehalis Reserve.

Apparently the abominable snowman is a tougher sort than B.C.'s Sasquatch. According to the tales, people sighting a snowman are almost always killed by the creature, but in B.C. the Sasquatch evidently is as frightened of ordinary men as they are of him.

Most of the Indian stories of the Sasquatch are told in first person by the person claiming to have seen and escaped the hairy giants.

The stories of the Sasquatch in B.C. gained enough belief some years ago that an American expedition was sent to the Mount Morris area near Harrison Lake to investigate the reports.

The American party failed to reach the summit of Mount Morris, which is supposedly the chief haunt of the Sasquatch. The mountain rises from a region that is one of the wildest and most difficult to traverse in the world, a land of sheer canyons and streams choked with devil's club.

UNABLE TO FIND GUIDE

The Americans, who were sent by the University of California, tried for two weeks to reach Mount Morris before giving up the attempt. No Indian would consent to guide them into the Sasquatch country.

Thomas Menzies, curator of the Vancouver City Museum, has been approached by men in New York and Chicago who are still interested in unraveling the mystery of British Columbia's legendary giants.

Some expedition in future years may uncover real evidence of some "missing link"—a tall, hairy, man-like creature—who may actually still exist in the far reaches of inaccessible mountain forests.

CAVE DWELLERS DISCOVERED

In 1921, the year the abominable snowman was first reported, two Canadian scientists actually did discover in the Himalayas, a tribe of 800 cave dwellers who had been isolated for centuries.

They live 17,000 feet up in the mountains, higher than any other men are known to live.

If the snowman is actually alive as reported in Nepal, British Columbians will enter their forests with a lot more caution than they now show.

Nobody has yet called B.C.'s Sasquatch "abominable"—the word doesn't readily spring to mind when one is running hard—but nobody wants to be the first victim when and if the local version of the snowman turns as savage as his Asiatic cousin.

Expedition To Probe His Lair

LONDON (Reuters)—Plans for an international expedition to Nepal to track down the "abominable snowman" in his mountain lair were announced yesterday.

The newspaper Daily Mail said it will send a team of explorers, scientists and technicians to the slopes of Mt. Everest to try to solve the 30-year "mystery of the Himalayas."

They will probe the desolate Nepalese snowfields and passes in their search for the legendary ape-like creature known by the natives as the "yeti." Local lore pictures him as a seven-foot red-haired monster who eats men and yaks.

Scientists, who originally paid little heed to the tales, have shown more interest since 1951, when Erick Shipton, leader of that year's British Everest expedition, brought back photographs of the "snowman's" tracks. Taken 18,000 feet up on the Everest approaches, they showed footprints 12 inches wide with a 2½-foot stride.

Zoological experts decided they might have been made by a large, rare species of langur monkey.

Three A's Easiest For Rock Gardens

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Today's notes are strictly for the beginner in the field of rock gardening. The expert and experienced cultivator of alpine plants will turn up his nose when I mention the three A's of the rock garden—Aubrietia, Arabis and Alyssum—and call them "common." They are common because they are easy to grow and like our climate. They are ideal for the amateur rock-gardener.

Just between ourselves and this again, is strictly for us amateurs—a lot of the plants the experts fuss over are nothing but unattractive alpine weeds, suffering an unhappy existence in our sea-level atmosphere with their toes tucked into a blanket of granite chips to keep them dry and bits of glass to keep the rain off their precious leaves. In their native homes, with the thin, clear air of the mountains and a heavy winter blanket of dry, powdery snow, they may thrive and enjoy life, but here the alpine hobbyist gives himself full marks if he succeeds in bringing them through a Victoria winter barely alive.

The three A's may be common, but they can put on a wonderful show of color in the rock garden, or on a rock wall.

Aubrietia is a grand wall plant, providing sheets of color from late March until June, with sometimes a second display in the late summer.

It is extremely easy to grow, and is best planted where it can cascade over a large rock or down a dry wall in full sunshine.

After it has flowered, it needs to be cut back hard, as this will keep it from becoming straggly and untidy, and will encourage strong new growth for the following season. Some of the best varieties are Carnival, a rich purple; Russell's Crimson, a deep, clear crimson; Gloriosa, a warm pink; Triumphant, light blue, and Church Knowle, a lovely lavender-blue.

Arabis, too, is very easy to grow, and needs similar treatment. The double white variety, Albida Plena, is delightful, and there is a pretty pink one with single flowers whose name I have never been able to discover. My sister, who is something of an amateur plant breeder, has developed an Arabis with flowers of a deep rose shade, which she calls Brodie's Wonder.

The brightly colored Alyssum often starts blooming in February and continues till the end of June. Alyssum Saxatile Gold Dust grows about 12 inches tall, and has vivid golden flowers. Citrinum has charming lemon-yellow flowers and grows about the same height, while there is a smaller variety, Compactum, a bright buttercup-yellow.

While these will grow anywhere, there is another of the family, Alyssum Idaeum, which needs a little richer soil and a bit choicer location. It forms a mat of silvery green foliage about three inches high, and bears clusters of soft yellow flowers during May and June.

Let's leave the poor, homesick alpine plants to the experts, who like to do things the hard way, and go after sheets of vivid color in our rock gardens by planting the easy three As.

Newspapers Turn Down Union Offer

NEW YORK (AP)—Publishers of strikebound New York newspapers and the AFL Photo-Engravers Union Wednesday night failed again to reach any agreement that would end a five-day strike.

The publishers turned down a union proposal for a $7.50-a-week increase package. He said the publishers, who have offered to arbitrate the issue, made no counter proposal.

The photo-engravers originally had asked for a $15-a-week increase. At a membership meeting earlier Wednesday they again turned down the publishers' offer to arbitrate, but cut their demands to half.

Meanwhile, 20,000 non-striking employees of the six effected dailies were dropped from the payroll Wednesday night until they return to work. Most of them belong to other unions and have refused to cross photo-engravers' picket lines.

More borax is produced in the southwestern United States than in any other part of the world. Chile ranks second.

Calder Criticizes Reserves for Indians

REGINA (CP)—Frank Calder of Greenville, B.C., Canada's only Indian legislative member, said Wednesday night that the reserve system has taken away the initiative of Indians and made them dependent on a government official.

Mr. Calder, CCF member for the Atlin constituency in northwestern B.C., addressed a public meeting. He said forcing Indians to live "in their own little world" means they do not learn skills or how to fit into a community once off the reserve.

He urged that Indians be given the same educational opportunities as whites and advocated relaxed liquor laws for Indian populations.

He said the Indian only went "haywire" after liquor restrictions were imposed, forcing them to make home brew on reserves.

Criticism of Engineering Firm 'Deplored' in Whatshan Probe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harold E. Barnett, chief engineer of H. G. Acres Co., Ltd., of Niagara Falls, Ont., yesterday deplored criticism of his firm before a Royal Commission here investigating disastrous slides at the Whatshan power project.

Mr. Barnett was answering criticism leveled Tuesday by Dr. Karl Terzaghi of Boston, internationally known expert on soil mechanics, in a report read to the commission.

Dr. Terzaghi's report said that the slides "were due to the fact that the consultants H. G. Acres Co. did not solicit the co-operation of additional consultants in connection with those phases of the project which could not expertly be covered by their own personnel."

Mr. Barnett said the entire criticism made by Mr. Terzaghi was based on a false premise.

"Our commission to do this work was not an overall commission such as we had at the John Hart development at Campbell River, B.C.," said Mr. Barnett. "In this instance it was pointed out we were willing to do any work the B.C. Power Commission asked us to do. That's exactly what was done.

"We did nothing further on this job after May, 1948, around the start of construction. We knew nothing further, and had no interest in it, and were never asked to go there until the slides."

Waving a copy of a newspaper report which he said had been carried across Canada by The Canadian Press, Mr. Barnett said: "I can't explain how much damage this may have done to us. The whole thing is irresponsible. I don't know what to do about it."

Mr. Justice Clyne interrupted to say "newspapers are entitled to carry any statements given in evidence. Apparently the report is quite accurate."

At another point in Dr. Terzaghi's report, the Boston expert said few engineers are thoroughly familiar with both theory and practice of pressure tunnels "and the members of the staff of H. G. Acres & Co. are not among them."

Mr. Barnett said: "If Dr. Terzaghi does not agree with us then we have no complaint.

"At the same time making a statement that a responsible firm such as ours, which has been operating in the country for 28 years, and has completed hundreds of millions of dollars worth of projects—I don't know what the law of libel is, but this must be very close to it."

Mr. Justice Clyne: "You are complaining against Dr. Terzaghi and not against the press?"

Mr. Barnett: "I want the newspapers to give our side of it."

Surgery Fatal To One Twin

LONDON (CP) — Tomunotanye and Wariboko Davies, three month old Siamese twin girls from Nigeria, were separated by surgery in a London hospital Thursday, but Tomunotanye died three hours later.

Her curly-haired sister, sleeping peacefully in a specially-designed oxygen tent, was described by Dr. Ian Aird, who performed the surgery, as "in excellent condition — quite as well as any baby could be after an operation of that magnitude."

But, he added, "the baby who was lost was equally well before her sudden collapse."

Oddity

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Keith Canning was really in there pitching.

In fact, he pitched the cricket ball right into Miss Gaynor Matherapike's face and broke her jaw. And while her jaw was in splints "I took the opportunity to pop the question," Keith said Wednesday as the couple announced their engagement.

The romance started last October when Gaynor saw the Englishman practicing cricket bowling and asked him if she could bat a few.

"I bowled easy balls to her until she asked for a faster one. That nettled me and I sent down a really fast one."

Then, literally, he bowled her over.

"He's a rotten cricketer," Gaynor said. "But I think he'll make a good husband."

They are keeping the cricket ball for their grandchildren.

Dr. Parker Leaves $391,898

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Dr. Painless Parker, who ran a medicine-show dental practice into a $1,000,000 chain operation, left an estate valued at $391,898, his will disclosed here Thursday.

Dr. Parker died November 8, 1952, at the age of 80.

His will, filed in superior court here Thursday named as beneficiaries his two daughters Mrs. Helen Moran Korn of Gilroy and Janes Frances Hewson of Rolling Hills, Los Angeles county, and his son, Edgar Randoph Parker Jr., of Vancouver, B.C.

Anxious Heart Bothers Many, Doctors Hear

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Worried about your heart?

There's a good chance you just have "anxious heart," with nothing actually wrong with the organ despite pains or other signs.

This anxiety heart disease was described Thursday in a paper to the American Medical Association by Dr. Jackson A. Smith, department of psychiatry and neurology, Baylor University college of medicine, Houston, Texas.

Fear and anxiety cause it, in civilians as well as soldiers, and the person focuses attention on his heart, Dr. Smith said. Sometimes it's created or helped along when during a heart examination the doctor says or does something making the patient believe his heart is really physically in trouble.

In "anxious heart," a person becomes aware of his own heart beat or pulses in his head or throat, Dr. Smith said. His heart may seem to skip beats, and he fears his heart has stopped or will stop. Often he complains of being breathless and fatigued.

The personality type likely to have the complaint is one who is tense, easily embarrassed, sensitive to opinions, indecisive, over-conscientious, and trying to live by standards which are realistically too high, the physician said.

It is true, he said, that one-third of Americans now succumb to diseases of the heart and blood vessels. But despite this, many people with "heart trouble" have no detectable physical disease. The anxiety heart disease does not significantly increase the incidence of real heart disease.

Calls on Companies To Combine

Alberta Defers Natural Gas Export

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta deferred export of its natural gas resources to eastern Canada Thursday night by calling on the two major competing pipeline companies to join in one over-all project.

Releasing the long-awaited report of Alberta's petroleum and natural gas conservation board, Premier Manning said the board felt neither company has established that it has assured markets to give Alberta producers a fair and equitable return and ensure successful financing of the project.

The provincial government agreed.

At the same time, Mr. Manning told a press conference his cabinet now will consider a recommendation from the board for further minor export—compared with the quantities to go east—to Montana.

He said the federal government now will try to get the two major Canadian companies—Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. and Western Pipe Lines Ltd.—to amalgamate.

Prime Minister St. Laurent was told of the recommendations last week.

Mr. Manning said he could give assurance that Alberta had more than enough gas to supply the eastern market.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines plans an all-Canadian export line to Ontario and Quebec while Western Pipe Lines proposed a line to Manitoba and then to the United States.

The government plan would mean an all-Canadian pipeline from southern Alberta through Regina and Winnipeg to the markets of Ontario and Quebec with a connecting line south from Winnipeg to the Minneapolis market area.

Mr. Manning said Mr. St. Laurent concurred with the Alberta government's views.

Eastern Canada To Get Gas First

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Thursday night in an interview that the federal [illegible] done is to get the gas to eastern Canada and then we'll be willing to talk about export.

[illegible] facilitate the amalgamation of two Canadian gas pipeline companies to enable them to export Alberta gas to eastern Canada.

Mr. Howe was commenting on the announcement by Premier Manning of Alberta that the province has sufficient natural gas for export to eastern Canada via an all-Canadian pipeline. A connecting line would run from Winnipeg south to the Minneapolis area.

However, Mr. Howe said that the all-Canadian pipeline must be in the process of being built into eastern Canada before any gas can be exported into the U.S. by the connecting line.

"We think this amalgamation is a sensible thing," Mr. Howe said. "The project is big enough for both companies. We hope the amalagamation can be brought about.

"The first thing that must be [illegible] the process of being built into eastern Canada before export will be permitted south of the border."

Choosing a Mayor

VICTORIA civic electors are in for a bracing time with a five-way contest for the mayoralty, considerable range of choice for four full term seats on the council and a plurality of candidates generally. Some effort has been made to say that partisan politics is in evidence, but we can find no trace of it in the official nominations and are glad of that because of Victoria's established preference for keeping civic affairs out of provincial and federal political arenas. What is in evidence is material disagreement over the policies which the city should adhere to in its own interest in the immediate future.

As we see it, Victoria needs an united council under balanced leadership which will draw out inherent ability in the city's senior elected body as a whole for the formulation of policy, which can then be carried out under the city manager system. The city manager plan is working well, and more regard now to a general tightening up of the fundamental functions of the city council could do much to strengthen the city for the solution of those problems of settlement and growth which must not be allowed to drift. In this, judgment, training in civic affairs, and a record of personal achievement in their own callings, are the qualities that civic electors have usually sought in representatives.

In so diversified a field of civic candidates it is difficult in short compass to make a definitive selection through the piece. Of three men apparently in chief favor for the mayoralty, the Colonist believes that Alderman Percy B. Scurrah is the man who by training, judgment and balance would be the most likely to make a success of the chief magistracy. Mayor C. L. Harrison has shown undoubted sincerity and courage in office, but he has not drawn the council about him in the fashion necessary to develop its widest powers. Alderman Waldo Skillings has proved himself a vital influence on the council, but lacks the diplomacy desirable in a mayor.

In our view Victoria is not in need of a boss or a dominating personality for its chief magistrate half so much as a chairman who will knit the council and other civic boards together for a businesslike and progressive discussion of city problems. This requires tact, patience and organizing ability of a high order, and in our opinion Alderman Scurrah has these qualities and would be the best choice for mayor in the present field.

An unusual circumstance of this election is that four of the mayoralty candidates are serving now on the city council, and three of them will not be there when the polls have closed. That makes all the more necessary this year a steady and long-headed choice of the full term and half term aldermanic board.

A Coveted Distinction

TO be bracketed with Marconi, Whittle and Parsons and linked in memory with Kelvin is to achieve the highest scientific status, and that is the distinction that has come the way of Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, head of the Canadian atomic energy control board. He has been awarded the Kelvin Medal, which engineering scientists all over the world vie for and consider to be the acme of attainment in their special field. The honor is a distinct compliment not only to Dr. Mackenzie but also, as he himself puts it, to Canadian achievements in scientific engineering.

When Canadians think of scientific endeavor they are apt to assume that eminence in this realm automatically belongs elsewhere, overlooking the high degree of technical skill and original thought at work in their own country. In the area of atomic energy, for instance, which Dr. Mackenzie directs at Ottawa, Canada is a pioneer and a successful one in the application of nuclear fission to non-military purposes, the field which in a world at peace could be immensely fruitful for mankind. That other nations of the west, the United Kingdom and the United States as examples, have assumed the burden and cost of atomic weapon research and development and thus freed Canada from similar ventures, in no way detracts from the value of the scientific contributions being made by Dr. Mackenzie and his associates.

The new winner of the Kelvin award, the first Canadian to gain this distinction, has a lifetime background of scientific engineering, the precursor of the eminent status that is now rightfully his. He is a Maritimer but nevertheless a product of the west, for it was in Saskatchewan that he built both the engineering school and the reputation that led him to the chairmanship of the National Research Council, a post that preceded his active participation in atomic energy research. The Kelvin Medal crowns a distinguished scientific career.

Crime and Horror 'Comics'

WHETHER because of weakness in the federal statute itself, laxity in administration, or conflict as to who should undertake enforcement, the law against publication or selling of illustrated magazines paradoxically described as crime "comics" has failed to keep them out of the hands of young people. The newsstands are being flooded with material which no one in his right sense could say was fit for children—dreadful, nightmarish stuff to fill impressionable minds with visions of inhuman monsters and fiendish cruelties.

In this trade the illegal "crime comics" have largely been displaced by "horror comics" which in some respects are even worse for very young children than those dealing with criminal aspects of human behavior beyond their understanding. To heighten the gruesomeness of these publications, some of them are now being produced in three dimensions, creating an effect of reality in which horrifying creatures appear to reach out for the viewer. They are enough to scare the wits out of children in their tender years; yet there is a fascination in them that is one of their worst evils.

Seriously perturbed over this situation, the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council has asked the British Columbia federation of parent groups to appeal to the provincial attorney-general for action. It says that tens of thousands of copies of crime and horror magazines are distributed on the Island every month. As an example of their deleterious influence the council quotes this passage from a vividly illustrated publication openly sold here: "She hated her crippled husband and wanted him out of the way! And she had just the plan—sure-fire, foolproof, the perfect murder. When it came to cutting up a body, Iram was a specialist . . ." That is merely one small sample of the type of reading matter that is being sold to the young.

Obviously the section added to the Criminal Code a few years ago in an attempt to clean up the newsstands has proved of little real avail. Parents are entitled to ask what is going to be done about this, by whom and when? So long as their children are exposed to this sort of literature they are not likely to be impressed by niceties of jurisdiction. Technically it may be up to local and provincial authorities to initiate action, but that would not reach the root of the trouble, which is the publishing houses located in eastern Canada.

SCOTIA'S BARD

Sir,—Reference the article on front page of Colonist December 1, "English Amateur Poet Translating Works of Robbie Burns," one is amazed that Mr. Seymour considers it necessary to translate some of the bard's poems from the Scottish tongue to the English tongue. Burns requires no translation in this respect, certainly not the drivel as shown in Mr. Seymour's version.

Natually the bard used his mother tongue, Scots! Part of his great genius and his appeal lay in his ability to take lowly themes and write on them in a pure and human understanding manner, with a moral involved. He also could and did express himself most eloquently and fluently, both in writing and speaking, in the English tongue as distinct from the Scottish tongue. One example, the lines "To Mary in Heaven," has been characterized by Lockhart as the noblest of all the bard's ballads.

Mr. Seymour asserts that Scots cannot understand many of the words of Burns, and challenges Scots to identify a "cutty sark." Well, well. "Her cutty sark, o' Paisley harn, that while a lassie she had worn." Nannie, the witch in her cutty sark, that headed the band o' fiends chasing Tam o' Shanter o'er the Doon Brig, and snatched the grey tail off his guid horse Maggi. There are two meanings for "cutty sark." "Part of a woman's underlinen cut short" and "a worthless woman." Burns combines the two meanings in the character "Nannie."

Mr. Seymour's translations are so insipid, they are not worth commenting on; in any case the glossary in any volume of Burns' works gives explanation of the Scottish words used. He might well draw a moral from the last two lines of Tam o' Shanter; in modern English, maybe he bit off more than he can chew, he might lose his sark, pardon me, his shirt, even although the English shirt is not as cutty as the Canadian; and while he may not get a warm welcome at a Burns' Night dinner, he'll surely get a hot one.

Thinking Aloud

. . . of shoes, and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

FEW people, I suppose, ever think of a dictionary as a source of romance, comedy or geography; it is regarded mostly as an indispensable aid to failing memory.

Certainly the last thing to be thought about a lexicon is that it would be the ideal desert island, if nowadays there are any such Elysian spots to be found. Such is therefore an interesting claim to be made on behalf of the dictionary.

E. Norman Torry, the author of "Round My Library Fire," is the advocate of this thesis because of the pleasure of dipping at random into its pages. As an example he says:

"Ha-ha! you say to yourself, what have we here? KIBITKA! Tartar circular tent covered with felt . . . And away your thoughts go through the length and breadth of Tartary, seeing visions of flat noses, slanting eyes, sheepskin rugs, astrakhan turbans, shaggy ponies and all the rest of it. There are hundreds of things to think of, aren't there? The Tartar womenfolk (and women are always interesting!), what they do all day long in those circular tents, how they cook their food, what they eat and drink, how they are born, how they die, and how they are buried."

* * *

That is very true. The most delightful, and most delaying aspects, of looking up references of any kind are the bypaths into which you are likely to stray. Particularly is this the case with an enclyopedia, which does not leave quite so much to the imagination as a dictionary. This column is a great browser in this respect. The original quest often becomes lost entirely in the maze of other facts that catch the eye and attract attention.

I suppose it all depends on the dictionary, though. Every one doesn't contain the word "kibitka," so the Tartary vision would not always be summoned. Trying out the idea, however, here is a dip. KHAMSIN! The definition is "a hot southerly wind in Egypt, coming from the Sahara."

Without conscious effort the mind is flooded with remembrance of a movie called "Immortal Sergeant," in which such a sultry gale blew sand into the eyes of some soldiers cut off behind enemy lines. Before you know what you are doing you begin to think about film making, and from there to Hollywood, and perhaps to some particular actors. And so in easy sequence to the Totem Theatre, and then you wake up and wonder what the latter has to do with a breeze from the Sahara, and 15 minutes have slipped by.

That is what can happen when you look at a word. Take another. NOCTUIN! You never heard of this one before but you read on: ". . . family of moths, including the cutworm moths . . ." and if it is summer you rush out to look at your garden cutworms, and then you notice the lawn needs mowing, and before you get back to the dictionary the garden has swallowed you.

* * *

Or try PIMENTO! You have no time to read the definition for suddenly you are hungry and you shut the book with a bang. Perhaps you essay one more attempt and the result is IZZARD! This, you learn, is the letter Zed or Zee, and as it is the end of the alphabet you may conclude you have had enough.

All this, however, is when you are simply taking pot luck. The same thing can happen when you deliberately check some specific word.

"Suppose," says Mr. Torry, "I am looking up a word I can't spell (the best dictionaries are those that spell exactly as you do but they are very rare!). Another word catches my roving eye: I stop, hesitate—and am lost. One word leads to another in a dictionary as well as in a quarrel; and about an hour later, having been interested and amused over a wide field, I don't bother to look up my first word but use another which I can spell."

You see!

If you have a mind to it, and perhaps nothing particular to read this evening when you snuggle down into your easy chair, experiment with Mr. Torry's advice. Pull the dictionary from your bookshelf, even if it is only a pocket edition.

You won't need a desert island then, and anyway a lounge chair is probably much more comfortable in reality. Let your imagination do the rest. A dictionary, you may find, has travel folders beaten by a mile and a half.

With the Classics

. . . It is not idleness to steep the soul
In nature's beauty: rather, every day
We are idle letting beauteous things go by
Unheid, or scarce perceived.
We cannot dream
Too deeply, nor o'erprize the mood of love,
When it comes on us strongly, and the hour
It is ripe for thought.

Austria's Ten-Year Wait

By W. N. Ewer, from London

IT is more than 10 years since the Austrian people were promised that when the war ended a free and independent Austria would be re-established. The declaration of the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics was made on October 30, 1943.

It is eight and a half years since the war ended, but Austria still remains neither free nor independent. Her territory is still occupied by Allied troops. Her government is still subject to Four-Power controls.

It is no fault of the three Western Allies that the promise of 1943 has not been fulfilled. At the Council of Foreign Ministers in Moscow in the spring of 1947 the American, British and French delegations, largely on the insistence of Ernest Bevin, pressed for the speedy drafting and conclusion of an Austrian treaty which would put an end both to the allied control and to the allied occupation. After some reluctance, Mr. Molotov agreed that the work of drafting the treaty should be started at once. It was—or seemed to be—the one positive result of the council meeting.

But hopes of a speedy treaty faded rapidly. When the foreign ministers' deputies met to prepare the draft, it soon became clear that the Russians were in no hurry. They adopted familiar tactics. Soviet demands were tabled which it was obvious that neither the three Western powers nor the Austrians could accept.

Under the terms of the Potsdam agreement, the Soviet Union was entitled to take as German reparations all German assets in the Soviet-occupied zone of Austria. But the Russians demanded a definition of German assets that would not only have crippled Austria economically but would have placed a large part of her economy completely under Soviet control. She would have become an economic dependency of the Soviet Union—and so, inevitably, a political dependency as well as a mere satellite state.

* * *

Nor was this the only impossible demand. Nevertheless, the three Western deputies worked away patiently, seeking to persuade their Soviet colleague to modify his claims, seeking to find reasonable and possible compromises which would satisfy some of the Soviet claims without prejudicing Austria's independence and economic viability. They went on for three years, for some 260 meetings. It began to look as if progress was being made, as if agreement might after all be possible.

But Moscow made a new move. Towards the end of 1950, the Soviet deputy announced that he would not take part in any further discussion of the treaty unless the Western Allies first satisfied Russian complaints about the Anglo-American occupation of Trieste—a matter which had no connection whatever with an Austrian settlement. It had the intended effect. It put a stop to the whole work of the deputies and to all further consideration of the treaty. Three more years have passed and nothing has been done.

* * *

The Three powers have made attempt after attempt to have the question taken up again. Early this year, in response to an urgent recommendation by the United Nations Assembly, they proposed that the deputies should resume work. The Soviet reply was a flat refusal. This time on the extraordinary and incomprehensible ground that the deputies cannot be regarded as a quadripartite international organ, and that they could not meet again unless expressly instructed to do so by a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers. The matter of an Austrian treaty should be considered in a diplomatic manner by means of an exchange of views by correspondence.

The Western powers tried again. They proposed that a meeting of the four foreign ministers should try to agree on the text of an Austrian treaty as well as trying to reach a settlement of German problems. The Soviet government refused to have such a meeting—again by their usual device of making what they knew to be impossible conditions. And as regards Austria, they went even farther. They appeared to suggest that the conclusion of an Austrian treaty should be made dependent on the reaching of a German settlement. Recent articles in the Soviet press confirm that this is their meaning.

* * *

Nevertheless, the British, American and French governments have now tried once again. There does seem to be one tenuous line open. The Soviet government has itself proposed an exchange of views by correspondence. It has done nothing to follow this up. But the offer may still hold good.

That is why the Three-Power note sent to Moscow on November 25 makes three alternative proposals. It repeats that, in the view of the three governments, the best course would be to have a meeting of the four foreign ministers, and that the next best course would be that the deputies should resume work. But if the Soviet government objects to both these, then "if the Soviet government would prefer to make proposals through diplomatic channels and in particular would give an indication of the basis on which they would be prepared to conclude the treaty," the three governments "would give any such proposal prompt and careful attention."

* * *

It is hard to see what more the Western powers can do. If the Soviet government responds by putting forward some kind of possible proposition, then, at any rate, there can be further negotiation. If, on the contrary, it refuses discussion either by the foreign ministers, by their deputies or by correspondence, it will be unhappily obvious that it has no wish to reach a settlement at all, but that it has made up its mind that, at any rate for the time being, Russian interests will be best served by maintaining the Russian grip on eastern Austria.

And unhappy Austria must still wait for the freedom and independence which she was promised 10 years ago.

Royal Journey

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

SIR Winston Churchill, the most Elizabethan of them all, compares Queen Elizabeth's tour to the Antipodes with Sir Francis Drake's voyage around the world. That earlier exploration, financed by another Elizabeth, marked the beginning of an island kingdom's adventurous expansion to a world empire.

The present venture—on which the greatly loved young Queen and her popular husband will undergo rigors of a different sort from those faced by the Elizabethan seadogs—marks one more stage in the transformation of a world empire into a great, co-operative commonwealth of nations.

The Royal couple will be absent for six months on their arduous goodwill tour—the longest absence of a reigning monarch from English soil, it is said, since Richard the Lion-Hearted went off to the Crusades. But Elizabeth will not be held for ransom, as Richard was, we may be sure. Not by the dominions and overseas territories that might like to keep her but are happy to share her with a world-wide Commonwealth as a symbol of a common ideal.

The "thin red line of empire" grows thinner every year. But the invisible bonds of interest and affection that knit such Commonwealth countries as Australia and New Zealand to the British Isles are renewed with every fresh emigration from the populous Motherland. Neither crusade nor exploration, the voyage now commencing may, even so, reclaim old enthusiasms and discover new loyalties in the far-flung descendants of a lion-hearted tradition.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A Russian TV set, brought to America, has only an eight-inch screen, which makes one wonder how they can crowd Malenkov into that small space.

* * *

In his big dramatic act in pyjamas, Mossadegh hit heights hitherto reached only by the 10-year-old boy demonstrating how bad he feels at 8 o'clock on a school-day morning.

* * *

An Italian movie actor, Tino Scotti, had a leading part in a picture, but was worried because in one of the scenes a knife-thrower was to frame him with daggers. He shared his misapprehension with the producer, who told him:

"Don't be nervous, and don't move; just remember that if they kill you we can't finish the picture and it will be millions thrown out of the window."

"But I," the artist retored, "would lose even more."

The director thought for a moment, then replied, "I know what we'll do. We'll shoot the knife-throwing scene last."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

EVERYONE has the right to do the best he can for himself under our free enterprise system. When big and paralyzing strikes tie up whole communities, many of us are inclined to grow a little hostile to organized labor. We suppose that the employers, who are contributing if not risking the capital, the machines, the premises and the carefully-built organization for handling, distributing and selling the product, are not as free to do the best they can for themselves as are the workers. They are burdened with all the equipment and material of industry. The worker has his burdens, too, but they are more flexible.

However, now and again some employer gets as irate and indignant as any striker. In one of our thriving smaller Canadian cities, a manufacturer of machine tools has been caught within the past couple of years between two pressures. He has had frequent disputes with labor, while at the same time he has encountered steadily stiffer competition from European-made machine tools. No labor leader could get any more indignant over social justice than he did, last winter. He spent three months in Europe, and from what he saw, he drew perfectly practical conclusions. Every man is free to do the best he can for himself. So he has signed on as an importer of the European machines, has cut his production to what is necessary to complete orders already taken by his sales staff, and the closing of his plant will coincide with the first shipment from Europe. His sales staff have already been called in from all across Canada and have been briefed on the new imported machines.

"By this act," said one of his employees, who is a strong union man, "you have furthered the cause of socialism and communism. It should be nobody's right to close factories like this."

"You closed it, more than once," replied the manufacturer. "If and when communism comes, you won't be free to do the best you can for yourself. Unless, of course, you are one of the leaders."

They part, on this uncertain ground.

Election Meeting Lacks Fire as Speeches Repeated

Many of the civic election candidates seemed to be running out of gas last night at a quiet meeting which featured little new material.

Several candidates presented the same speeches they had used on previous occasions. Charles Hunt's harmony theme was sung by the majority.

About 80 persons turned out to hear the candidates speak at Sir James Douglas School auditorium at a meeting arranged by Donald Smith.

ONE NEW PLANK

Ald. Waldo Skillings introduced one new plank in urging voters to support the idea of "a real civic centre" for Victoria. He did not promise to introduce the idea himself but indicated that "the time has come" for consideration of such a centre for arts, music and other cultural activities.

Ald. Percy Scurrah again promised to fight for grants in lieu of taxes for Victoria from the senior governments. He said he was sure the provincial government "will give us a fair deal and we will get a substantial grant."

The federal government, he said, was "a tougher nut to crack" because it did not "recognize municipalities at all." He cited the case of the Belmont Building which would bring the city $15,000 a year of it was in private hands.

GO FOR NEW REVENUE

He said he wanted the opportunity to go after this new revenue "without being frustrated."

"We have been frustrated during the past two years," he said.

Mr. Hunt called himself the "harmony kid" but promised to be a "fighting mayor." He called for keeping party politics out of city hall and for gradual amalgamation of essential services.

Mr. Smith again thumped his pet plank, an elected parks board for the city. In addition to this he urged proper planning by the city to encourage new light industry in the city.

He said there was no magic in his method of increasing revenue, just common sense. He said a proper industrial committee under city council could make it easier for light industry to establish itself here and stay in business by proper planning.

ONE MORE YEAR

Ald. Mrs. Margaret Christie, seeking a one-year seat on council, again asked for "just one more year so I can finish my job" on the Victoria Nursing Home project.

Opposing her, Mrs. Max Campbell said she had found out the story about the Victoria Nursing Home and that "regardless of who is elected it will certainly be carried out." She reminded the audience that the home was administered, however, by a private society.

"The Victoria Nursing Home could be sold tomorrow and city council could do nothing about it," she said.

SEES DISSATISFACTION

Ald. William Pinfold said the fact that three aldermen were running for mayor indicated dissatisfaction with the present state of things.

"There must be lack of co-operation," he said.

Fred Blakeney said he favored harmony but "not if it produces higher taxes."

"People don't mind a little discord and lower taxes," he said. In a departure from his usual platform, Mr. Blakeney came out strongly against crime comics and "subversive literature" on city newsstands.

"EATING IT UP"

"If you put it in the furnace you wouldn't even need to put a match to it," he said. Youngsters, he said, were "eating it up" and "avidly reading this filthy literature".

Gordon Carter said as a businessman he was interested in keeping taxes down. He said amalgamation would have to come some day but a proper survey was required first. He said he opposed "frills" in the new school building program but agreed with the need for classroom space.

Geoffrey Edgelow said he was [illegible] everything he could for a progressive Victoria.

HAIGH PHILOSOPHER

Harry Haigh said harmony on council was alright but, turning philosopher, he drew an analogy from a roomful of quiet children.

"If they're too quiet, you wonder what they're doing," he said. "They're too quiet to be good." At one point he began to mention something he had heard about which was "not dishonest, but damned disgraceful." He asked the audience to put new faces on council so there would "not be harmony, there will be justice."

Chairman Percy George said he resented Mr. Haigh's reference to some incident in a previous council.

NO DISHONESTY

Mr. George said in his 21 years in civic life he had yet to come across any evidence of dishonesty or underhanded dealings with civic officials.

Micard Mooney asked for better care for the aged, better traffic control and no politics in council.

Elgin Neish repeated his plea for a business tax, a fair deal for civic employees and abolition of the road and poll tax.

During a question period Mr. Neish asked Alderman Scurrah why he was opposed to the business tax in Victoria.

The mayoralty candidate said a survey conducted by the retail merchants' group of the Chamber of Commerce had shown the business tax was unfair and inequitable.

SEVERAL QUESTIONS

Mr. Smith was asked several questions on his plans for light industry here. One man wanted to know what use there was in bringing more industry here when "industries are now folding in Victoria."

Mayor Claude Harrison was absent from last night's election rally. He had previously arranged a meeting of his own at the Orange Hall.

SIXTY HEAR MAYOR

About 60 persons showed up to hear the mayor speak on a let's-have-sanity theme.

The mayor warned his audience to be "ever watchful when fact-twisting, half truths, fact-dodging and pyrotechnics begin." He said the "let's warm it up" kind of election material meant "ballyhoo."

"Those are the earmarks of the political machine being brought into play and the sign of its first grinding."

He said to "cut out the nonsense" and figure out what was the best financial set-up for the city.

Re-Elected

W. J. HAMILTON

Victoria Police Commissioner W. J. Hamilton was re-elected to the commission by acclamation yesterday when no candidates filed nomination papers to contest the seat.

Damage Light In Accidents

A flurry of minor accidents kept police busy last night but in all cases damage was light. One person was taken to hospital for a check-up after being slightly shaken up.

City accidents occurred at Cormorant and Blanshard, Hillside and Douglas, Pandora and Camosun, and View and Pandora.

Shirley Wannamaker, 24, of 615 Atalaia was shaken up in the latter mishap between two cars.

Saanich police reported they had one accident at Union and Blenkinsop but no one was injured. Damage was $200.

Christmas Party Being Held Today

Oak Bay Progressive Conservatives will hold their annual Christmas party today at St. Mary's Hall, Yale Street.

Diana Lynn Loses Voice

LONDON (Reuters)—American actress Diana Lynn lost her voice 14 minutes after the curtain went up in a London stage show Wednesday night, with the Duchess of Kent in the audience. Miss Lynn, 29, playing in "The Moon Is Blue," hurried off stage and her British understudy, Andree Melly, 20, took over for her first big chance. She received six curtain calls.

Cruelty Penalty Held Too Light

LONDON (CP)—P. F. Remnant, Conservative MP, introduced a private bill to amend the law banning possession of a dog by anyone convicted of cruelty. He wants the law extended to cover all pets, and the maximum fine for cruelty increased to £100 plus three months in jail.

Teacher Barred From Park Post

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—School teacher Ken Wright has been barred for running for Park Board in the civic elections here December 16 because he is on the city's payroll.

But the Wright name will be on the ballots. Mr. Wright's wife, Rosemary, mother of four children, has entered the race and will oppose commissioner Hugh Gifford for the one seat open.

Wrights' Diaries Published

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orville and Wilbur Wright are to tell their own story today of the moments of triumph and disappointment they lived in inventing the airplane.

Their philosophies — even their rare differences and disputes — are disclosed in the Wright brothers' diaries, notes and hundreds of letters handed over to the Library of Congress after the death of Orville in 1948. Wilbur died in 1912.

The sum total is a composite picture that does away for all time with the need to apologize — as many writers have in the past — for the scientific background of the two young men who were the first in history to apply engines to wings successfully.

The diaries show the one-time bicycle repairmen were brilliant, patient, precise, thorough-going scientists.

Oberlin College in Ohio sponsored publication of the Wright papers in order to "recognize fittingly the benefactions" of the two brothers to Oberlin. The two thick volumes are published by the McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Scott Makes Hilarious Hit In Mayoralty Race Review

W. A. Scott may not get elected to city council but the civic election campaign will have been better fun because he tried.

He brought down the house last night at Sir James Douglas School with a hilarious thumbnail account of the speeches of the five mayoralty candidates the previous night.

GLOOMY ORATIONS

He called them "gloomy, funeral orations of doom" and proceeded to outline each one. Mayor Claude Harrison, he said, dwelt on bankruptcy and Ald. Percy Scurrah could see the Point Ellice Bridge "crashing down."

Alderman Waldo Skillings, he said, quoted from Shakespeare: "The evil men do lives after them, the good is interred in their bones."

"He wasn't asking us to vote for him he wanted us to bury him," said Mr. Scott. (The audience laughed so long that he asked chairman Percy George for an extension of his five minutes speaking time).

HARMONY AND HUNT

He referred to Donald Smith's "lament" about the parks situation and added that Charles Hunt merely wished to produce the "harmony at the burial of his four colleagues."

Speaking in a husky whisper, Mr. Scott said he had "lost the voice of the little man" because of a cold.

"I can think of no greater calamity in Victoria than Scott without a voice," he told the delighted audience.

Earlier Mr. Scott paid tribute to the late P. B. Freedman who died last week. The colorful fest, says the auctioneer, he said, had "in graphic Society, of humor."

The average depth of the ocean below sea level is 12,450 feet, says the National Geographic Society.

Soviet May Be Competitor In Grand Prix Car Races

FRANKFURT (AP) — A West Germany Communist newspaper said Russia may enter Europe's leading automobile races next year.

The Sozialistische Volkszeitung of Frankfurt said Soviet competition in Grand Prix races is a "possibility" in 1954 but it depends on whether the Russians first join the International Federation of Automobilists, FIA.

The newspaper disclosed that the Soviet Union is building racing cars which have reached speeds up to 231 kilometres per hour (144 m.p.h.).

Lobsters, which once were thought to do little ocean traveling, drift hundreds of miles as tiny spiderlike lobsterlings before settling down to the sea bottom. In this stage they are almost transparent.

Braking System Much Neglected

BY FREDERICK C. RUSSELL

Judging by accident statistics there's many a slip between the accelerator and the brake pedal.

Shocking as it may seem, the thing that needs most attention on cars is the braking system. Safety inspections show an actual increase in the percentage of cars which are lacking in this most important function. Last year, in one check-up, 24.4 per cent of the cars tested were in need of brake adjusting or more extensive service, whereas this year the figure had increased to 26.8 per cent. Next on the list of defects were the car's front lights, which were 14.2 per cent by the latest count. Horn defects were way down the list at 3.0 per cent, showing a decrease of 7.6 per cent as compared with the previous year.

The trade is currently alarmed over low-quality brake lining which has been flooding the market. One panic stop and this lining is almost useless. Tests recently conducted also show that brake fluid leaking on some of the spurious lining causes it to disintegrate rapidly.

It figures that one out of every six cars needs attention to the brakes. This is one reason so many people get trapped into trouble when the car at the head of the line stops suddenly. The car just ahead of yours may not be stopping as quickly as it should because the brakes are not up to par. You could stop more quickly but are trapped into assuming it isn't necessary.

MONEY'S WORTH

There would be less complaining about repair costs and the time required to do various jobs on the car if there were better appreciation of the time required to get ready for the work, as well as to finish it off. For a transmission overhaul on a typical car, 2.3 hours of work are required to get the car ready for the three hours of actual work which includes removing and replacing the pressure plate. A lot of what looks like just messing around is vital to the work that requires skill and special equipment. It is a large part of what you pay for.

MECHANIC JOE SPEAKING

"If the engine doesn't crank easily this fall the situation may be due to incorrect ignition timing. With gasoline higher in octane rating, many a motorist has advanced the timing in order to get more pep from the engine and to take advantage of the better mileage which advanced timing provides. But it may be necessary to back away from this a bit if cranking is difficult.

"What actually happens when the engine is too far advanced is that the mixture is fired too early on the upward compression stroke of each piston. The tendency is for the pistons to be retarded in their upward travel. It slows down cranking like too-heavy oil."

CHECKING TWO WAYS

It may seem to be a waste of time and money to check the front wheel bearings to see if they have sufficient lubricant, because they so often have plenty when exposed to view, but don't forget that the greater virtue of such inspection is the opportunity to check for bearing damage.

Trouble idling the engine smoothly is more usual than exceptional, and for a variety of reasons. One is that cooling is below normal, resulting in uneven temperatures which adversely affect tappet clearances and ring expansion. There is also more likelihood of loading up with an over-rich or over-vaporized mixture. But a simple fact is often overlooked. I refer to the ignition system, which, during idling, is completely dependent on the battery. That is why expert tune-up men always check the battery before starting to smooth out the engine.

KEEP IN MIND

When a mechanic wants to know if clutch springs are weak, he presses the pedal down with his hand. If it's too easy, he's suspicious.

If your driving is mostly at road speed, you need a different capacity condenser for the breaker points in order to check burning.

Now is the time to use cardboard between the grille and the front lower portion of the radiator core as a winter windbreak. It's most effective in helping the car heater do a better job!

BUILDS PRESSURE

Having the brakes apply themselves is no pleasant experience, as many a driver knows. If this happens it may be due to gumming of the piston of the master cylinder. The effect of this is to cause pressure to build up automatically within the lines.

WHAT'S YOUR TROUBLE?

Q. I have been troubled with a tendency for the engine to load up even though the carburetor float level has been carefully set. One mechanic believes this is due to excessive pulsations from the fuel pump. T. H. B.

A. How about installing a fuel pump pressure regulator? It fits in the line between the pump and the carburetor, preventing high pressures that raise the float too high.

Alterations Match Customer Requests

New MG Has Restyled Body, More Power

A restyled body with a more idealized shape, increased power output, and detail modifications to improve comfort and accessibility are among the many new features of the 1954 MG "TF" midget.

The alterations were carried out after careful research in world markets, especially in the United States, where 25,000 MGs have been sold since 1946.

A cross-section of consumer and dealer opinions showed that 90 per cent of MG owners do not want their cars for competitions or racing but do demand a high performance combined with durability and smooth riding.

The engine in the 1954 model is basically the same 1,250 c.c. unit, but the power output has been increased to 57.5 brake horsepower at 5,500 r.p.m. It is in fact, the Mark II engine formerly offered as an alternative in the "TD" model.

This increase in power has been achieved by raising the compression ratio to 8:1 and using twin carburetors of 1½-inch diameter with enlarged inlet ports. Extra large valves (inlet 36 m.m., exhaust 34 m.m.) are fitted with 120-pound valve springs to enable engine speeds up to 6,000 r.p.m. to be obtained without valve bounce.

The radiator, while still retaining the [illegible] appearance of the MG, curves back to meet the downward slope of the bonnet and the front wings have been re-shaped to shroud the headlamps. The bonnet sides are now fixed valances and the centre-hinged top is opened by two push-buttons on either side.

The 12-gallon gas tank, with quick-release filler cap, has also been re-shaped to bring it lower, and this greatly contributes to the new over-all line of the car.

This model is available either with steel disc wheels or with knock-on wire wheels at a moderate additional cost. Optional extras include badge bar, fog lamp and luggage carrier.

A new addition to the MG [illegible] It is the Magnette, a medium size four-seater [illegible] powered by an overhead valve 1½-litre BMC engine of a new design. It will develop 60 brake horsepower.

New Model Trucks Being Glamorized

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry is glamorizing its trucks.

Eye-appeal is emphasized in all the 1954-model commercial vehicles so far introduced. Lavish use of chrome, in interiors and exteriors, and varying colors, including two-tones, are among the characteristics of the new vehicles.

They are even finishing interiors in two tones to complement exterior finishes. This extends through the seat and door upholstery.

There are sound reasons for the beauty treatment, truck makers say. Besides sales appeal there is prestige for owners and an incentive to drivers to give the attractive truck proper care.

Equally important, the manufacturers say, is the "family interest." They explain that many small business men and farmers need vehicles that can be used for both business and family transportation.

While refinement applies more to the smaller pickup models, it has been carried through to the heavy-duty vehicles.

There is emphasis also on increased ease for driver and passenger. Seats have been designed for comfort. Instrument panels have been made more easily distinguishable for night driving. One-piece wrap-around windshields also have been adapted to trucks.

Engineering advances include wider adaptation of automatic transmissions and power steering, and increased engine horsepower.

One line of trucks has a new type of muffler, two years in the making, intended to eliminate objectionable exhaust noise, long one of the foremost problems of the trucking industry, without reducing engine power.

Truck manufacturers this year probably will make close to 1,200,000 vehicles of varying sizes and hauling capacities.

Large-volume producers include Chevrolet, Ford, International, GMC and Dodge.

Marines Called Barbarians

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet military newspaper Red Star Wednesday denounced the United States Marine Corps as "just a bunch of plunderers, barbarians, robbers, pirates and murderers of children in Korea."

The article was one of a Red Star series in which Soviet soldiers are being told they must hate American imperialists because they are preparing a new war against the Soviet Union.

By The Canadian Press

Goalie Terry Sawchuk played his finest game of the National Hockey League season Thursday night, turning aside at least a half-dozen "sure" shots by New York as Detroit Red Wings blanked the Rangers, 4-0.

TERRY SAWCHUK

Montreal Canadiens remained a single point behind the league-leading Wings by trimming Toronto Maple Leafs, 5-1. That [illegible] points ahead of Montreal and one point ahead of Boston Bruins, who turned back Chicago Black Hawks 3-1.

THIRD STRAIGHT

Detroit's victory, on home ice, marked Sawchuk's third straight shutout. He made 27 saves, some of them bordering on the fantastic.

It was his fifth shutout of the season and ran his scoreless streak at home to 211 minutes and 24 seconds. The last player to score on the Red Wing netminder in Detroit was Boston's Ed Sandford, who clicked November 19 at 8.36 of the second period.

Detroit packed all its scoring into the second period, counting three times within 3½ minutes.

STARTED FLURRY

Alex Delvecchio started the flurry at 2.59 with a 20-foot golf shot. Gordie Howe netted at 3.45, coasting in all alone. Vic Stasiuk completed the outburst with a net rebound kill at 6.22.

At 15.46 of the second period, Johnny Wilson scored his ninth goal of the season.

Canadiens blasted four shots past goalie Harry Lumley to rack up their victory over the Leafs in Montreal. Maurice "Rocket" Richard accounted for two of the goals, making his season total 12. Ken Mosdell, Floyd Curry and John McCormack tallied the others for Montreal.

BLOOPER SHOT

Rudy Migay counted for the Leafs in the final period on a blooper shot from the blue line. The puck bounced in front of goalie Gerry McNeil, took a hop to the left and into the net.

It was a fast, rugged game most of the way, slowed down only by outbursts of close checking. Twelve penalties were called, seven to the Leafs.

Fern Flaman of the Leafs and Dollard St. Laurent got into a brawl in the first period and were given major penalties for fighting. St. Laurent came out of the scrap with a cut under his right eye and across the bridge of his nose. He did not return to the game.

Third-period goals by Dave Creighton and Milt Schmidt, the latter's with only seven seconds left, enabled the Bruins to come from behind for their victory in Boston over the last-place Hawks.

MOSIENKO SCORER

While going through their fifth game of the season without a defeat against Chicago, the Bruins spotted the Black Hawks the first goal by Bill Mosienko during the second minute of the middle period. Mosienko registered a 15-footer after taking a pass from Gus Bodnar.

Soon after, however, player-coach Sid Abel drew the first of his two penalties and Johnny Peirson moved the Bruins into a 1-1 tie with their short-handed opponents.

Joe Klukay set up both of Boston's third-period tallies. He fed Creighton in front of the Chicago net and batted a long pass that enabled Schmidt to start his scoring jaunt.

Little League's New Executive

Guiding Little League baseball in its second season of operation here will be above group of Victorians. A meeting was held last night where a financial statement for the first season was given and plans for next year were also discussed. Figuring strongly in these plans are, left to right: Maury Johnston, player agent; Frank Moxam, Junior Chamber of Commerce representative; Jim Nicol, Little League director; Gerry Elliott, secretary; George Bradley, treasurer, and Bud Simpson, Little League chairman.

Ball Park Worth Well Over $10,000

Little League Reviews Fine First-Year Record

BY IAN GLENDAY

Officials of Little League baseball, highly optimistic over the prospects of their second season in Victoria, have issued a financial statement of their first year of operation that must be encouraging to all.

The statement came at a meeting last night in the Chamber of Commerce board room.

Starting last season with nothing more than a few promises of help and hopes that the venture would not fall through, and facing plenty of hard work to assure its success, officials said that a profit of $46.67 was realized. Receipts totaled $2,383.21 while the output for playing equipment, field equipment, clubhouse equipment and administration costs was $2,336.54.

CLOSED PARK

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored Little League baseball in co-operation with The Daily Colonist, poured $5,349.48 into the project, most of it going to erect a closed park. But Chamber of Commerce officials are quick to emphasize that the park can be valued at better than $10,000 through free labor and donations by city merchants.

Plans for the coming season were also under discussion last night. The present setup will expand from a four-team league into two leagues of four teams each, the original circuit being called the National League and the four new teams forming the American League.

It's almost certain that the four original sponsors — Gyros, North Kiwanis, Rotary and Odd Fellows — will be back and 25 organizations in the city have been contacted for the possibility of sponsoring the four new clubs. Several would-be sponsors were represented last night and it's a safe bet to say that there won't be any trouble in finding sponsors from the enthusiasm shown.

NEW PARK NEEDED

It is also hoped that several city organizations will undertake to build an additional park or parks to accommodate the many youngsters who still can't participate in Little League baseball.

Under next year's setup, the eight teams will be able to draw from an area of 25,000 population, an increase of 10,000 over last season's quota.

The new boundary takes in northern Oak Bay and part of Saanich but still leaves the south side of the city, Fairfield and James Bay districts, and Esquimalt untouched.

Several improvements will be made to the present playing site at Hillside and Cook Streets but grass, which was planted late in the summer, is ready now.

The Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—Al Rosen, the most valuable player of the American League, has helped to prove an important point.

In the first place, it should be stated again that the MVP nominations of Rosen and Ray Campanella were approved by practically everybody. They were standouts in every way.

Rosen, the Cleveland Indians' star, was so determined to better his batting average that he worked on it during the winter season.

We have often wondered why the young ballplayer gets less instruction, less teaching, than a beginning competitor in any other sport. Golf has around 10,000 teachers instructing millions all through the year.

There are any number of these instructors that are busy from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Try to get a lesson some time. But don't wait from spring to winter, for most of them are tied up well in advance.

Prep schools and colleges are packed with football coaches, teaching the young how to pass and kick, run and block. They are at work in thousands of schools and hundreds of colleges.

Tennis instructors are all over the map. But in baseball there is only Rogers Hornsby, and a few other capable instructors, plus a few winter camps that are ably handled in the main. Hornsby is now getting ready to teach via television and he should do well, for he certainly knows his trade.

Getting back to Rosen. At Miami, back in 1952, I ran into Max Carey, another smart instructor. Max was meeting Al Rosen, who wanted to improve his batting enough to work on it during the winter. He has always been a serious young man as far as his ball-playing goes anyway.

"Rosen is a good natural hitter," Carey said, "but he wants to be a better hitter. I've been working with him to get him—swinging his bat in the right plane—in lines that are parallel to the ground. Too many batters try to swing up too much at the ball while aiming at a higher lift to carry some fence. Others cut down at the ball, getting no lift at all. When a bat is swung along the right line you get far better results. Rosen has already improved his swing a lot. In 1953 you'll see greatly improved results."

In 1953, Rosen only needed one more hit to finish a grand slam season—batting average, home runs and runs batted in.

I asked Carey why it was that baseball paid so little attention to instruction for younger players.

"I don't know," Max said. "When you look at golf, football, tennis, swimming and other sports you'd think that baseball owners would get wise. But they haven't. Young players go into a batting cage full of swinging faults that soon grow into habits, with no one around to teach them. These faults should be corrected early in a man's career. You would see an number of batting averages take sudden leaps if every team had one or two good instructors on the job to work with the rookies and other young players."

I know of several players that Hornsby improved by 30 percentage points or more. I saw last season what Carey helped to do with Al Rosen.

Elmer Curtis Sets Record

Elmer Curtis established a season's three-game record in the Gibson Bowladrome's Commercial Tenpin League Wednesday night, hitting for 650 to break the old mark of 623 set by Alex McKeachie.

Bowling for Ranson's, Curtis rolled games of 221, 194 and 235 to help his team knock off the former leader Shaw Sheet Metal in three games. Curtis also holds the high single game of 245 set earlier in the season.

The Australian Davis Cup selection committee has named Clive Wilderspin, George Washington, Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson to supplement the squad which will defend the trophy December 28-30.

Wanderers XV Plays Vindex At Vancouver

Oak Bay Wanderers' first division Victoria Rugby Union team will travel to Vancouver Saturday for an exhibition inter-city match with Vindex Club.

Wanderer coach Dick Ellis had been negotiating with the club to play the match in Victoria but he announced yesterday that his club would travel to Vancouver instead.

Two second division games and a exhibition midget match will provide the only local rugby action Saturday. In second division play, Victoria College II meets Shawnigan Lake Boys' School at College grounds and University School takes on Oak Bay Wanderers at Windsor Park, both games starting at 2.30 p.m.

Oak Bay Wanderer midgets, who lost to University School 23-0 in a game played as a preliminary to the opening McKechnie Cup match here in November, will meet the private school in a return match at Windsor Park at 10.30 a.m.

Seattle	29	8	18	4	71	104	22
Edmonton	29	4	17	4	92	119	20

Thursday night's score: Seattle 3, at Edmonton 9.
Next games, tonight: Saskatoon at VICTORIA, New Westminster at Vancouver, Seattle at Calgary.

Don Poile, younger brother of Edmonton playing-coach Bud Poile, came close to two Western Hockey League records at Edmonton last night as he scored four goals in the final period to spark the Flyers to a 9-3 decision over Seattle Bombers in the only game scheduled.

The promising rookie, who is looked upon as future material for the National Hockey League where his more famous brother spent seven seasons, scored three times in the space of 67 seconds to come within 20 seconds of the WHL record of 47 seconds set by Calgary's Archie Scott in the 1951-52 season.

His four goals came in nine minutes and nine seconds, only 20 seconds from the record for the fastest four goals set by Joe Closan of Portland back in the 1949-50 season.

Flyers, playing their sixth game in seven nights, followed up Wednesday night's 3-1 decision over Calgary to move within a single point of the leg-weary Bombers, making their second Prairie tour and playing their 18th game in 30 days.

Poile was aided in the Flyer scoring attack by Enio Sclisizzi with two goals. Frank Kubasek, Jim Uniac and Marcel Bonin each got singletons while Wayne Brown, Joe Bell and Rudy Filion scored for Seattle. Bud Poile ran his season point total to 30 by getting four assists.

CATS VS. QUAKERS

Victoria Cougars will be out to improve their record against Prairie opposition tonight at Memorial Arena when they host Saskatoon Quakers at Memorial Arena at 8.30 p.m.

The Cats have picked up 12 of a possible 16 points in intersection play this season and have tied the Quakers twice, 3-3 and 1-1.

A victory for Cougars will break a fourth-place tie with Quakers and move them only three points back of New Westminster, providing the Royals lose at Vancouver. Also holding the spotlight will be the scoring streak of the Cougar line of Ed Dorohoy, Alex Kuzma and Sam Bettio.

Dorohoy has a goal and seven assists in his last two games and can challenge Frank Ashworth for the league's scoring leadership. Bettio has four goals and two assists in Cougars' last two games while Kuzma has two goals and four assists.

Thunderbirds May Make Japan Tour

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia rugby team, the Thunderbirds, may tour Japan next summer, it was disclosed Thursday by UBC coach Albert Laithwaite.

The proposed tour has been tentatively approved by UBC athletic officials and individual members of the B.C. Rugby Union.

The UBC squad would play seven or eight games in Japan before returning for the fall school term and regular season games. The team will also meet the Cambridge University varsity team during the latter's tour of Canada next September.

United Out To Break Tie for Second Spot

Victoria United will be seeking to break a second-place tie with Vancouver Firefighters in the Coast Soccer League Saturday when they meet Vancouver City in a crucial game at Royal Athletic Park, starting at 2 p.m.

United, idle last week-end, holds a 3-1 victory over Vancouver City here this season and a triumph Saturday will boost them three points ahead of the Mainland club, tied with New Westminster Royals for fourth place, only one point behind.

In the only other scheduled Coast League action Saturday, North Shore United will be out to extend its three-point, first-place margin in a match against the Dominion champion Royals at Vancouver's Callister Park.

Victoria coach Wally Milligan is planning no changes in his defensive lineup but will again shuffle his forward line in an effort to produce a more potent scoring punch in the United attack.

LINEUP

Bill McAllister, who has been one of the bulwarks for the local club this season, will be at his usual position in goal with Joe Robbins and Bill Hope again forming his fullback protection.

Steady Herman Henry will remain in his centre-half position with Harry Carruthers on his right side and Jack Robbins at left half.

Up front, Milligan will give big Chuck Newman a starting berth in the centre-forward spot. George Wright is due to start at inside right with bustling Jim Turner parolling the right wing.

MOFFATT PIVOT

Bill Moffatt will pivot the City half line flanked by Ernie Durante and Joe Jordan while George Bagdanovich and Norm Gustini will form the full back protection in front of goalie Ray Dixon.

In reserve for the Vancouverites will be Cliff Wells, Sievert Erickson, Pat Philley and Tom Harrison while Milligan will be ready for action on the United bench along with Ab Travis, Ced Robb, Hector McIntyre and Mill Milne.

Les Isaacson is scheduled to referee the match.

Local Grid Season To End on Spectacular Note

Victoria's 1953 grid season, which will undoubtedly go down as the most successful on record, winds up Saturday at Macdonald Park on what should be a highly spectacular note.

Navy's league championship team will meet a combined all-star team of players from Oak Bay Whitneys and C & C Taxi Vampires in the final game of the season at 2 p.m. with all proceeds going to the injured players' fund of the civilian teams.

The sailors, who went undefeated through six games before being upset by Royal Roads in the city final by a 12-6 score last week, have lost several players because of the draft but will have most of their "big guns" in action.

Jack Grant and Dave Burch, the spark of the backfield, will both be stripped for the game with Joe Hornosty and John Noyes alternating at the quarterback spot. Navy's punishing line is expected to again cause the opposition plenty of headaches.

A. B. Dougan, who was earlier suspended by the league over the question of his playing status but later cleared, will be in strip as will kicking specialist Doug Brown and giant centre Skinulis.

Bert Nelson, colorful coach of the sailors and a former Winnipeg Blue Bomber, is expected to get into the game either as a lineman or a halfback. Johnny Bing, ex-Saskatchewan Roughrider who has been one of the game officials this season, is also reported to be playing for the sailors.

The All-Stars will dress 24 players, 12 from each team, and have an imposing lineup on paper. Pete Ash and Denny Boyd of Vampires and Oak Bay respectively will handle the signal-calling with Vampires Cliff Hume and Whitney's Ken Higgs at fullback.

Halfbacks include Chuck Bishop, Art Dawe and Art Manson of Vampires and Gary Webster, George Wilson and Red White of Whitneys.

In the line, there will be Denny Lewis of Vamps and Lee Kozak of Oak Bay at centre; Joe Fry and Lorne McDonald of Vampires and Ray Ramsay and Gordy Gann at the guard positions, and Larry Brownlee and Trev West of Oak Bay and Vampires' Jim Baldwin and Dusty Rhodes at the tackle slots.

Handling the pass receiving will be Don Brownlee and Rick McVie of Vampires and Gordie Bennett and Pat Corneille of Oak Bay.

Eleanor Anderson, B.C. Product Fair's 1953 Queen, will take part in the opening kickoff ceremonies while Archie Baillie, president of the newly-formed Victoria Touchdown Club, will present a trophy to the winning team.

Ken Watson's Curling

The Ostrich-Headed Skip

To paraphrase: "Uneasy lies the head that dares to skip." Having held that unenviable position for years, I feel every sympathy for the indignities the skip suffers, whether in the role of victor or vanquished. To the average curler, the longlegged patriarch who deems to call himself skip is guilty of any and all miscues that lead to defeat. Personal vanity or the desire to feel important necessitates a whipping post to justify our alter-ego's. Someone has to be the goat.

Nevertheless, there is a type of skip with whom I shall always be at variance . . . the one who, like an ostrich, sticks his head in the sand and refuses to face realities. I refer to the skipper whose strategy points solely to building up an end in which at worst he has only to lay guards with his own rocks. He hopes wishfully to have a shot rock so well protected that when it comes his turn to play, he will not be called upon to remove a vital stone or draw accurately to the four-foot rings to save the end. Once he gets one of his team's rocks "in there," he uses the other seven stones to guard the living daylights out of it so that only a drop kick could remove it.

If a skip has not the courage or the confidence to play the end open, particularly when he has the last stone, he should graciously step down and give way to someone who has. Too many promising young curlers have been discouraged from pursuing the game further by such frustrating tactics.

This type of play has no place in the granite game where striking and chap and lie are the vogue. It was typical of the iron game where the draw was the only shot, but the rollicking resilience of the granites, where chips, wicks, striking and rolling, in addition to drawing, add sparkle to the unpredictable outcome of a modern curling game, does not tolerate a type of game in which every player on a team is not called upon to play an offensive part.

When you have the last rock, skipper, open it up. Play your stones to the sides as well as the middle and play for the big end with your own shots as the payoff. Otherwise—maybe you would make a good lead.

Duncan School Captures Cup On Late Goal

Queen Margaret's School of Duncan Saturday won the annual Bridgman Cup grass hockey competition by edging Oak Bay High School, 1-0, on a goal by Maureen O'Brien with less than a minute remaining.

The two finalists shared the trophy last year when they battled to a draw in the final.

Oak Bay won four straight games in its section while Queen Margaret's won a berth into the final by also taking four straight games in the other section.

Competing in the tournament were Oak Bay, Queen Margaret's, St. Margaret's, Mount Douglas High, Esquimalt High, Victoria High, Victoria Ladies, Victoria Golds, Cowichan High School and Victoria College.

Frank Albert In Hospital

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UP)—Football star Frankie Albert was reported "resting comfortably" in Palo Alto hospital Wednesday undergoing treatment for yellow jaundice contracted while playing football with Calgary in the Canadian League.

His wife said Wednesday, the former San Francisco forty-niner quarterback had lost about 10 pounds. However, she said the physician informed her that Albert should be released from hospital in the next few days.

Signing of Johnson May Be First Salvo

CALGARY (CP)—Two Calgary sports editors, commenting on the loss of sensational Negro halfback John Henry Johnson of Calgary Stampeders to San Francisco 49ers, say it is possibly the opening salvo in an all-out war between American and Canadian professional football.

Signing of Johnson, voted most valuable player in the Western Conference this year and one of the top four candidates for the same all-Canada award, was a reversal of the trend of recent years.

Previously, it was Canadian clubs which irked the United States National Football League interests by picking up choice American professional and college stars. Included were were household names like Dick Huffman, Martin Ruby, George Reiterman; and this year John Kissell, Billy Vessels and Bobby Marlow.

ONE-YEAR CONTRACT

In some cases there were claims and counter-claims about some of the import stars jumping American contracts. Court action resulted in the cases of Huffman and Kissell. In Johnson's case, only a one-year contract with Stampeders was involved.

"It was strictly a move to de-emphasize Canadian football and it certainly succeeded," said Frank McColl, sports editor of the Albertan. "Johnson's exploits for a cellar-dwelling team drew rave notices from one end of the country to the other."

SECRET MEETING

Said Gord Hunter, sports editor of the Herald: "We have it on good authority that the NFL will hold a secret meeting to formulate more plans aimed at stemming the flow of American talent to Canada."

Hunter said that although Johnson's salary was never made public, it was believed to be about $10,500 for 1953 and "it is believed the Calgary club was willing to go as high as $15,000 to bring him back next season." McCool quoted Stampeder manager Bob Robinett as saying: "We offered John Henry a salary exceeding the amount 49ers pay their top halfback Hugh McElhenney."

O'CONNOR IRKED

Calgary club president Ed O'Connor, obviously irked, said:

"In the past it has been our policy to respect NFL contracts and we would like to continue along the same road. But if it is the intention of the NFL clubs to disregard our contracts, then we will have no other alternative than to go out and sign any ball player in the U.S. who is willing to come to Canada, regardless of whether or not they are signed to contracts."

McCool said it is not too hard to visualize the hand of NFL commissioner Bert Bell in the background of the Johnson case, pulling the odd string with a benign smile.

Golf--- Here's How

BY SAM SNEAD

The square stance, which means the toes parallel the direction line, is the simplest for full shots. Then, down through all the shorter clubs, move the heels closer together for each increase in club loft. Open the left foot toward the hole more and more as you increase the loft of the clubhead. Golfers who have sent for my chart of Correct Stances for Different Clubs will understand this perfectly. If you haven't sent for that free chart, just address a request to me and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 3c. In the short shots you need very little body. The hands, arms and wrists do the work. One cure for slicing is a closed stance which means, of course, that your right foot is drawn farther back from the direction line than the left. The effect of this stance on the swing is that it makes it more certain that you'll swing into the ball from slightly inside out across the direction line. This puts a slight right-to-left spin on the ball which straightens out a slicer.

Small Long Island College Snaps Lengthy Rio Grande Win Streak

NEW YORK (UP) — Little Adelphi College of Long Island snapped the longest collegiate basketball winning streak in the nation when it defeated Rio Grande College of Ohio, 83-76, while limiting fabulous Bevo Francis to 32 points at Madison Square Garden.

The spunky Long Islanders, 30-point underdogs prior to the game, broke the Rio Grande streak which had been the Ohioans win all 39 of their games last season and their 1953 opener against Erie Tech last Sunday.

Almost forgotten in the losers' defeat was the personal showing of the six-foot, nine-inch Francis, who cracked every scoring record in the nation last year with a total of 1,954 points.

Trailing, 60-50 at the end of the third quarter, Adelphia, led by six-foot, two-inch Larry McDonough, gradually began to narrow the gap. Finally, after a field goal by McDonough had cut Rio Grande's lead to 67-66, McDonough personally put Adelphi into the lead with a one-hand hook shot from the right.

Only five minutes remained in the game at that point, but Adelphi, whose tallest regular was only six-foot, five-inches, continued its offensive and never gave the Ohioans a chance to regain the lead.

The crowd of approximately 12,000, lured mainly by the magic of Bevo's name, watched the angular, 21-year-old star centre play with four men guarding him for most of the contest. Time after time the fans urged the Ohioans to "feed" him the ball, but Rio Grande neither built its attack around nor completely ignored him.

YARDLEY OF LONDON

England gave us a secret

Some 100 years ago the bartender of Pimm's Restaurant of London invented a tall drink which he called Pimm's Cup. To this day, the formula for this delectable, taste-tempting gin drink is still a secret. Try it—it's the coolest, brightest, most refreshing long-iced drink you ever tasted!

Here's a simple way to enjoy Pimm's No. 1 Cup: Take 2 ozs. of Pimm's No. 1 Cup; charge with lemon soda or gingerale; add a slice of lemon, a thin slice of cucumber rind (if available) and serve well iced.

Hoop Expert To Appear At Saanichton

Bill Closs, who was the leading scorer of the Southwest Conference in 1943 while a member of the Rice Institute basketball team and was named to the Helms All-American team of that season, will arrive in Victoria Saturday afternoon for a series of personal exhibitions on Vancouver Island.

Traveling for the Converse Rubber Company, the former professional star will hold four clinics on the Island under sponsorship of Hocking and Forbes. There will be no admission charges.

Open to players, coaches and fans, each clinic will consist of a personal exhibition by Closs, with emphasis on newer techniques of ball-handling, offense and defense. The exhibition will be followed by a sound film of major championship games of the past season and antics of the Harlem Globetrotters.

Closs's Vancouver Island itinerary follows: Saturday, 8 p.m., Saanichton Community Hall; Sunday, 2.30 p.m., Cumberland Recreational Institute Hall; Sunday 7.30 p.m., Chemainus Community Centre Hall; Monday, 3.45 p.m., Victoria High School.

All basketball games scheduled at Saanichton Saturday night have been canceled in order to allow Closs to present his clinic.

Boxing Saturday At Royal Roads

Annual boxing tournament at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, will be held at 2.30 p.m. Saturday with the winners representing Royal Roads at the Canadian finals against three other Canadian Military Colleges in February.

Rear Admiral Hibbard, DSC, RCN, Flag Officer of the Pacific Coast, will present the awards to the champions of each class.

Rosewall, Lewis Hoad In Final

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australia's youthful Davis Cup stars Thursday advanced to the singles final of the Victoria state tennis championships.

Top-seeded Ken Rosewall downed George Worthington 6-1, 2-6, 6-0, 6-1 and Lewis Hoad whipped Rex Hartwig [illegible] in Thursday's all-Australian semi-finals after earlier elimination of the American contenders.

The top U.S. entries, Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, were knocked out after matches in which tempers flared both among the spectators and the American players over a number of foot-fault decisions.

No Franchise For Winnipeg

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Winnipeg of the class C northern League gave up its efforts to gain an American Association franchise for 1954 today.

Ed Doherty, league president, released a statement, that pointed out no franchise was available in the association and there was no indication that any would be available.

The announcement by Doherty apparently ends reports that Charleston, W. Va., might shift to International League.

Calgary Signs Howard Waugh As Replacement for Johnson

CALGARY (BUP) — Line smashing fullback Howard Waugh of Tulsa University, leading ground-gainer in United States college football last year, today was signed to play with the Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference.

Waugh, 22, was called in to fill the big gap left by the departure of John Henry Johnson, who quit the club Tuesday to play with the San Francisco 49ers.

"He's got a beautiful record," said team manager Bob Robinett, "and is a terrific ball player."

Waugh chalked up 1,372 yards rushing in 165 carries for an average gain of 8.37 yards in the 1952 season. Billy Vessels, now with Edmonton, was second in ground-gaining last year, and Saskatchewan Roughrider's Bobby Marlow was fourth.

The new import was second draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams this season but was called into the American Army and was just recently released, too late to play.

A good defensive player, Waugh was well schooled in the split-T formation, an indication that the Stamps may feature that attack next year.

SPOTLIGHT TEST PROVES VAST SUPERIORITY OF G-E ULTRA-VISION

This dramatic test was carried out by local G-E TV dealers to prove conclusively the superiority of G-E Ultra-Vision over conventional TV. Under the same viewing conditions, they put leading conventional TV sets and a standard G-E Ultra-Vision set through this rigorous test. Heading two powerful floodlights at normal room lighting height and six feet away from each set, they focused the beams directly at the picture tubes. The conventional TV pictures without exception "washed out" under the lights, leaving an image too weak for viewing. Under the same conditions, the G-E Ultra-Vision picture remained clear and sharp, with brilliant blacks and whites and a wide range of intermediate tones . . .

WHAT THIS TEST MEANS TO YOU

This test proves that G-E Ultra-Vision allows normal room lighting that softens and improves the TV picture, to give a full evening's life-like entertainment that is so easy on the eyes. If you want to read or knit or work while others watch TV, you can have all the light you need. Yet G-E Ultra-Vision will give the same eye-comfort viewing ease and startling realism, however large or small your living room. Insist on seeing Ultra-Vision at your G-E dealer's . . . the moment you compare, you see the difference.

Left: the 21" "Regency" Model C 2168 without doors. Right: the 21" period styled "Shaftsbury" Model C 2158 with doors. Both line cabinets are finished in glowing, hand-rubbed veneers of Walnut, Mahogany or Light Oak. Adaptable to UHF.

WHY G-E's ULTRA-VISION IS THE BEST PICTURE AVAILABLE IN TELEVISION...

An extraordinary Aluminized Picture Tube—engineered and introduced by G-E expressly for G-E Ultra-Vision, increases picture brightness up to 80%. The exclusive Stratopower Chassis—another G-E first—was designed and built to operate Ultra-Vision at FULL efficiency. And to complete your viewing enjoyment, G-E's remarkable Glarejector System and Filter Safety Glass eliminate every avoidable trace of interference. See Ultra-Vision today and see what these advances can mean to you in terms of better viewing.

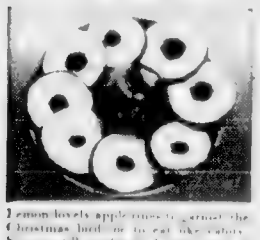
For a festive cup of coffee, add a dash of sweetened whipped cream, made extra good with a few drops of Sheriff's fragrant Rum Flavoring. Instant a bright green that master touch.



Lemon-layered apple rings to garnish the Christmas bird or to eat like cakes. Simmer till tender in 1 cup water, 2 cups sugar, 2 teaspoons Sheriff's True Lemon Extract. They're swell!

Another garnish, with glitter supplied by Sheriff's tingly Mint Jelly. Gently roll the jelly out of the jar, cut stars with cookie cutter, and place on pineapple slices. Sheriff's True Fruit Jelly is a treat with any dish.

All your food will look prettier, taste more exciting if you just add a little Sheriff's Flavoring Extract, pure Food Colour or a shimmering garnish of Sheriff's True Fruit Jelly. It's worth it!

NO. 299—NINETY-FIFTH YEAR — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1953 — SECOND NEWS SECTION

Island Mayors and Reeves Re-Elected by Acclamation

Acclamation predominated yesterday when nominations for municipal office closed in various Island cities, towns and villages. Several contests were assured, however, particularly for seats on municipal councils.

At Duncan Maj Gen C A P Morison was elected by acclamation as reeve of North Cowichan for the next two years. Vacancies Aldermanic contestants are Ald Fred G Weaver, Ald Norman C Odgers, Walter C Hamilton and Aubrey C Flanagan.

Trustee Roy Biggs was the one nominee for two school board seats.

A mayoralty contest was assured in Alberni when two were nominated. Mayor Benjamin F Wright and Ald Kenneth A Patterson.

There were five nominations for three council vacancies. Ald Thomas L Thomson, Ralph Hawkshaw, Charles Blair Kerby, E Gil and Donald Watson.

No nominations were received for the single school trustee vacancy.

ALL ACCLAMATIONS

For the first time in 11 years all candidates at Lake Cowichan were returned by acclamation. They included Mayor Leonard Irwin, Aldermen Dr A T Verchere and R P Battle all for two-year terms, and Sidney W J Seaton also for a two-year term.

Councillors also returned by acclamation were Charles Hodgson, Henry Henderson, Alexander R J Brown, J Bright and A F Watson. Points board J Bateman and John Strachan police commission, C J Pearson.

Nominations for commissioner of Parksville included W A Patterson, Pat M Young, Frank Sanford and George Dodds.

There are two council vacancies and the election will take place December 10.

At Qualicum Beach five were nominated for the two commissioners seats. They are Craig Reid, Donald S McMillan, Frank Parker, James Greham and Frank Seymour. Voting will be on December 10.

All candidates at Courtenay received acclamations.

The complete slate is mayor, Dwyer; aldermen, S Wright, W C Moore, J S Aggett and P Hanson; school trustee, R G McPhee.

Lake Cowichan village commissioners Vernon Thompson and Mrs. Mildred Cloud, were re-elected by acclamation.

At Comox there were four candidates for two commissioners seats. They are Commissioner David Aitken, Wallace Rennie and George Reed.

Nominated for four school board seats were Mrs. Elam S. Beaton, Frances Dunn and Clarence M. Mussen. Trustee Harry N. Freeman received an acclamation.

Weather Warm For November

AROUND TOWN

Victoria last month came within a degree or two of smashing a temperature record set up in November, 1899.

Average temperature for the month was 48.2 degrees which is not far short of the all-time record high of 50 degrees. Last month was 3.2 degrees higher than the average.

Rainfall, however, was nearly an inch less than the normal. Only [illegible] were recorded.

Victorians can count themselves lucky when they compare their weather with that recorded in Vancouver and Calgary. The latter Island town set an all-time record high for the month with 1.177 inches, while Vancouver had 7.46 inches, 2.43 inches more than usual.

Maximum temperature in Victoria was set up on November 11 when the mercury rose to 58.7 degrees. The minimum of 38.1 was recorded November 3. Minimum temperature on grass was 27 degrees November 17.

There were 21 days with rain during the month which was three more than average. Sunshine totaled 75.6 hours or 2.8 hours less than normal.

A former vice-president of the Greater Victoria Musical Festival Association has been appointed president of the society.

Mrs William Ross succeeds J. F. K. English who has been forced to resign because of his duties as deputy minister of education.

Mr. English had been president of the association since the inception three years ago.

The vacant post on the board of directors was filled by the election of Dr. Eldred J. Manning. Dr. Manning recently returned from a long holiday in Europe and the Middle East.

Two teenage girls were treated for injuries following a traffic accident in Esquimalt Tuesday night.

Shirley Chandler, 19, of 155 Robertson and Norah Tembey, 16, of 2313 Windsor Road, were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for minor cuts and bruises after the car in which they were riding was in collision with another at Esquimalt and Wollaston.

Damage to the cars was described as only medium.

* * *

Clothesline burglars stripped four pairs of men's shorts and two pairs of ladies' undergarments from a clothesline at the home of Ray Fairservice, 2553 Roseberry, overnight Wednesday, police said Thursday.

* * *

May Pawlyshin, 73, Market, charged in city police court with assaulting his wife, Sophie, and occasioning her bodily harm, was remanded without plea until Friday morning.

The remand was arranged so that Pawlyshin may obtain an interpreter.

He is charged with striking his wife on the nose, eye and forehead on December 2.

To Be Married December 21

A marriage has been arranged between Rose Wells, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Holmes, Barry, South Wales, and Mr. David George Havard, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George Havard, "Crossroads," Gordon Head. The wedding will take place at First United Church, Smithers, B.C., on December 21, followed by a reception to be held at Rutherford Ranch, home of the bride's sister, Mrs. M. Rutherford. Mr. Havard is a graduate of the University of British Columbia and is the land inspector for the provincial government at Smithers. After a few days at Paradise Lodge, Francois Lake, the young couple plan to fly to the coast before returning to Smithers.

Common Western Policy Big Three Aim

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Cementing western policy in the light of Russia's last minute acceptance of a long-standing offer for Big Four talks will be the primary goal of the Big Three in Bermuda.

The free world's most powerful men gather on this tiny mid-Atlantic isle this week but their attention will rove all over the map.

The questions President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Joseph Laniel have to try to answer range from Korea and Indo China in the Far East to creation of a European army half a world away.

Some of the most important are:

Assessment of Russia's intentions—this is doubtless the biggest problem coming up. The success of Western strategy, the very future of Western civilization depends on making the right guess as to whether Moscow has any intentions of unleashing a new world war. This automatically leads to the next question.

Is there any point to having a top-level conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov? Churchill thinks no harm could come from sounding him out in a face-to-face meeting. Eisenhower thinks it would do no good. The French take a middle position although somewhat nearer the British than the American viewpoint.

In the light of Soviet agreement to hold a Big Four foreign minister's conference, the western Big Three will probably decide to wait and see what happens there before making a final decision.

Korea—France has already pulled her troops out of Korea and sent them to Indo China. Britain, too, is eager to find some solution which will minimize her commitments in that remote Asian peninsula and the United States certainly does not want to reopen the war.

Just how far the West can go in compromising with the Communists on Korea's future is something that the top level meeting will have to decide. All three are on record as supporting a unified, democratic Korea, but all three are also on record as opposing the use of force to achieve it.

Indochina—The Communist rebellion in this southeast Asian area has been draining the lifeblood of the French army and economy for seven years. The three will try to decide whether to make an all-out military effort for a definitive end or to resort to an attempt for negotiations with the Communists.

Relations with Red China—Here Britain and the United States are diametrically opposed and France, once again, takes a middle course this time somewhat closer to the American view than to the British.

The British have recognized the Red Chinese regime and feel the West's best course is to admit that the Communists won the Chinese civil war and try to make the best possible deal with them. They feel the West may won Mao Tze-tung away from his current allegiance to Moscow.

The United States, at least publicly, strongly supports the claim of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to be the legitimate ruler of the vast land mass of China although at present he is confined to the island of Formosa.

The European Army—France is dragging its feet on ratification of the treaties which would set up a unified European army in which German troops would serve. Britain and the United States are expected to put pressure on her to go ahead. France, however, is expected to demand at least economic control of the disputed industrial Saar basin as a pre-condition.

The Middle East — How to pacify its factions and ensure its safety from possible Soviet aggression? This is an extremely complicated question involving oil, Jewish-Arab disputes, control of Suez and the proposed Middle East defense command. No definitive solutions are expected.

The answers found to these questions—and there is no way of guessing them in advance—will largely determine what arms level the Western powers feel they will have to maintain for defense. These answers therefore will very largely set the taxes free men will have to pay to stay free.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" IF you feel "ALL-IN"
These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 88

Radio Business Booms in New York As Newspapers Shut Down by Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—How's business?

During New York's newspaper strike, the answer is: It depends on what you're selling.

Those holiday shouts of joy with which the big department stores usually greet the Christmas season are sounding a little hollow. The ringing of their cash register bells has been muted.

But the radio and TV stations are having a field day.

"The sales department is going frantic—turning down money," radio station WOR reported. The station's radio time is sold out.

Radio and TV stations generally reported the big department stores like Macy's, Gimbel Brothers, Bloomingdales and movie and grocery chains have been snapping up available time.

WNBC and WNBT, the local radio and TV stations of NBC, reported pulling in about $35,000 in "strike business" so far. About $14,000 of it is in new radio accounts, $21,000 in TV advertising.

The local NBC organization also is putting out 250,000 copies of a one-page news sheet each day. The papers are given away to commuters at Grand Central station, Pennsylvania station, the bus terminal and in the big subway stations.

NBC also had put out walking news dispensers. Three young men carrying portable radios roam Times Square, Rockefeller Centre and Madison Avenue. They wear sandwich boards saying: "Ask me the latest news."

WCBS, the local radio station of CBS, reports 17 new advertising accounts since the walkout of the photo-engravers tied up New York's major newspapers.

All of the major stations and many of the independent ones have sharply boosted their news coverage.

It's difficult to get a line on just what the loss of newspaper advertising has done to the big department stores. Most stores aren't talking.

But Women's Wear Daily, the bible of the big retail trade here, reports store managers "singing the blues."

Prison Debating Team Best in New Zealand

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Auckland's top debating trophy will be in safe keeping for the next 12 months, in the local prison. A team of prisoners won the trophy in competition against other debating teams, winning the final by 388 points to 313.

Serving Canada in the Army you serve...
Yourself
Big tanks commanded by young men form part of the vital forces which defend Canada, today. Keen, alert and highly trained, our soldiers are men to be proud of. They serve our freedom — and build interesting, rewarding careers for themselves.
Specialists of many kinds are needed to man the tanks of the Royal Canadian Armoured Corps. The Army will train you — if you make the grade — in one of the many specialties of Armour. You will be proud of your place as a member of a fighting tank crew. You will enjoy Army life . . . the security of good pay and pension; the 30 days holiday every year; the sports and the training. Here is the career for a young man interested in his own future and Canada's.
Variety: Travel at home and overseas is part of life in the Army. You see more, learn more — and get ahead more quickly in the Army, today.
Trades Training: There are many jobs and trades for which the Army can train you. Expert teachers, the best possible equipment and experience — these will help you to a better future no matter where you go.
To be eligible you must be 17 to 40 years of age (tradesmen to 45). When applying bring birth certificate or other proof of age.

RCMP Veterans Honored

Long service and coronation medals were presented yesterday to 27 members and former members of the RCMP by Attorney-General Robert Bonner during a special ceremony at headquarters. Shown above immediately following ceremony are Assistant Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac, Staff-Sergeant D. C. Ashby, veteran of 27 years in the force who received coronation medal; Mr. Bonner, and Sergeant D. G. Mead, who received long service medal in recognition of more than 30 years in the force. Sgt. Mead and Sgt. Ashby had the longest service records among the group honored yesterday. (Story on Page 21.)

U.S. DIVER DROWNED SEEKING DEPTH MARK

CPA Claims World Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—What is believed to be the longest non-stop commercial passenger flight in airline history was completed early today by a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B.

The flight carrying 57 passengers and a crew of eight flew non-stop from Haneda airport in Tokyo to Vancouver, a distance of 4,800 miles, in 13 hours and 31 minutes. Aided by favourable tail winds, the plane averaged 345 miles an hour for the entire trip.

Pilot was Captain James Black of West Vancouver. Other crew members were First Officer J. A. Gourley, Relief Captain B. Hellings, Radio-navigators J. F. Kirby and W. R. Hunter, Stewardesses Joan Hazelwood, Pauline Loo, and Helena Loo, all of Vancouver.

Because of the international date line, Captain Black actually arrived in Vancouver before he left Tokyo. The plane left Haneda airport at 3.47 a.m. Friday, Tokyo time, and touched down in Vancouver at 12.38 a.m., PST, Friday.

The first non-stop flight from Tokyo to North America was made in 1931, by Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, who flew to win a $25,000 prize put up by a Japanese newspaper.

Deposed King Goes to Britain

The Kabaka of Buganda, a province of Uganda, Africa, shown inspecting his troops, has been deposed as kabaka, or king, by the British colonial office. He is accused of repudiating his obligations to Britain, based on an agreement made in 1900, when he supported an independence movement in his British-administrated colony. He is now in Britain for conversations on the status of his province.—(Central Press Canadian.)

Champion Also Died

Attorney Tracked to 400 Feet In Free-Swimming Descent

MIAMI (UP)—An amateur diver vanished in the Atlantic deeps Thursday after going down 400 feet to seek a free-swimming record that cost him his life.

Hope Root, 52-year-old attorney, may have become the victim of the rapture of the deep, diving experts said, or he may have suffered an organic attack under the enormous pressure at the 400-foot mark.

Root slipped off the vessel Arbalete smiling confidently with 74 pounds of aqua-lung gear and weights.

Scientists aboard a University of Miami boat watched his progress by fathometer and said he went down 400 feet, leveled off and then apparently sank to the bottom.

Record free-swimming dive was made by Frenchman Maurice Fargues in the Mediterranean. Fargues also died in his dive in which he initialled a blackboard at 396 feet.

Root, a "daredevil" from his childhood, went down four miles off the beach at 12.30 p.m. He had a 20-minute air supply. A coast guard cutter, the Arbalete and a University of Miami marine laboratory boat started a search at 1.15 p.m.

Later the coast guard announced that it was sending a helicopter out "to look for the body." However, some persons still had hope that Root was swimming in rough waters.

Another diver said he easily could have been a victim of the rapture of the deep, a type of intoxication caused by the pressure which reaches about 200 pounds per square inch at 400 feet.

(An Associated Press dispatch said Root had reached a depth of 500 feet in his fatal dive.

(The dispatch pointed out that in free swimming dives, such as Root made, a face mask, foot fins and a compressed air tank are used, but the diver swims freely. He has no heavy diving suit or air pump.)

Society Protests 'Tax on Worship'

Provincial government policy of taxing productions of the Victoria Choral Society—particularly those of a religious nature—was sharply criticized last night by a society official.

The society was informed this week by Finance Minister Einar Gunderson that a 5 per cent amusement tax will be levied on its production of Haydyn's Creation" on December 14.

In a brief presented to the government in October, the society asked for exemption from the amusement tax on grounds that its productions are a cultural force.

This is the same reason, it explained, why symphony orchestras all over North America are granted exemption from amusement taxes.

On three occasions in the past two years, it was stated, productions of the Victoria Symphony Society, in which the Choral Society took part, were not subject to the tax. On the other hand tax has been charged on Choral Society productions in which the Symphony Orchestra participated.

Graham Steed, director of the Choral Society, said that it was like taxing an act of worship to tax a production like Handel's "Messiah" which was produced last year and made subject to the amusement tax.

The work has often been presented in churches, but it is more effective when produced in a theatre where full symphony and full choir can take part, he said.

Mr. Steed charged the government with being "tax happy" after being told by a government official that when the society uses a theatre "we lose the revenue that we'd ordinarily get from the movie you're replacing that day."

Wife Pleads For Return Of Husband

BY BRIAN O'CONNELL

A young Victoria mother last night appealed to Victoria police to bring back her amnesia-stricken husband who turned up in Winnipeg Monday after being missing for six days.

"I want him back," sobbed Mrs. Allan Siemens, 1134 Pandora, wife of the 22-year-old milkman who disappeared November 25.

Mr. Siemens is at present staying with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ross, in Winnipeg.

Told last night he was still in Winnipeg, Mrs. Siemens asked anxiously, "Are they going to bring him back? Do you have the address?" How can she get him back is the big question in the mind of the young mother.

"The last time the police wouldn't do anything for me. They said they would have to wait 30 days so they could charge him with desertion but added that even then I would have to find him before they would do anything," she said.

Mrs. Siemens said it was the third time since January this year that her husband has disappeared suddenly. His last attack took him to Cypress, Man.

A driver with Palm Dairies Limited in Victoria, Siemens was last seen when he picked up a truck load of milk at 5 a.m. on November 25. The truck was later found abandoned.

In Winnipeg, the amnesia victim said that as far as he can remember he never saw a milk truck in Victoria.

"As far as I know, I was driving a steel truck," he said.

Mrs. Siemens reported that he was wearing his milkman's uniform, a pair of rubbers and a sport shirt when he vanished.

"The last time he took our car," she said, "We thought it was funny he didn't take our car this time because he had the keys in his pocket."

The Siemens have a young daughter and another child is expected in January.

"I can't go to work or anything," she said, explaining that she had to move from their home because the rent was due.

She is living with a girl friend now but will have to move out shortly when the friend's husband returns.

"I can't go home to my parents again," she said on the verge of tears. "My folks won't let me go home unless I get Al in the hospital.

"I have been going home in the past when Al went away but just when I got settled there he would turn up. My folks say they are tired of it."

Mrs. Siemens reported she had arranged with a doctor to give her husband treatments but if he won't agree to them he can't be forced to take them.

Siemens told the Canadian Press Thursday he had tried to join the navy last Monday and will be going down to HMCS Chippewa, Winnipeg naval barracks, today to find out definitely if he can get back in.

"They phoned me Thursday and requested me to come down," he said. "I hope I can. It's the only life."

His wife said: "He should know he can't get back in the navy."

He was honorably discharged from the navy last December because of a sudden loss of memory believed caused by an old head injury.

Churchill Greets Laniel at Airport

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill greeted Premier Laniel on his arrival by plane Thursday and hustled him off in a car without even allowing time for a prepared speech.

The two leaders, who will open talks with President Eisenhower late today, drove off under armed escort to the Mid-Ocean Club—site of the four-day conference. Eisenhower will fly here this morning.

It was learned the three leaders have agreed in advance that Russia's agreement to a four-power foreign ministers' meeting will be the first subject discussed.

Foreign Secretaries Eden and Bidault and State Secretary Dulles will meet first to lay the groundwork for the Big Three discussions.

Discussions will go on almost continually in formal sessions and at informal meetings—sometimes among all three leaders and often between only two of them. Eisenhower plans to return to Washington late Monday. Churchill and Laniel will not depart until later in the week.

Churchill will take time off after the conference to do some painting.

Spokesmen for the three delegations Thursday night outlined four basic purposes of their meeting.

To assure Soviet leaders of the West's peaceful intentions.

To explore the "if, when and how" of possible contacts between the Western leaders and Russia.

To strengthen material defenses against Communist aggression in the Far East or Europe.

To remove existing and potential causes of friction and dis-unity among Western powers.

No-Confidence Motion Lost

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons last night defeated by a vote of 153 to 56 a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the government. The vote ended the three-week-long throne speech debate and cleared the way for immediate consideration of government legislation.

Liberals, CCF and the three independent members in the House voted against the motion, which stated Canada's welfare depends on free competition and urged government policies to "restore" markets and promote world trade.

It was the second vote of the day on a non-confidence motion. Earlier, 11 Progressive Conservatives joined with the Social Credit party in supporting a Social Credit motion that was defeated 193 to 25.

Union Mob, Police Clash

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—An enraged mob of some 1,000 AFL maritime unionists clashed in a brief but bloody fight with police riot squad members on the waterfront here yesterday as authorities nipped an inter-union riot in the bud.

The AFL men, members of the sailors, marine firemen and cooks and stewards unions, marched on Pier 39 to "get" rival leftwing independent unionists who earlier had beaten up several AFL men.

Their target was a group of about 150 members of Harry Bridges' longshore union and Hugh Bryson's independent National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards, gathered on the pier to picket the passenger freighter Ss. Aleutian, centre of a jurisdictional fight between the AFL stewards and NUMCS.

Both sides were armed with clubs, brickbats and bludgeons torn from the wooden railings of the pier.

All available police officers were rushed to the waterfront when the battle royal appeared imminent and the clash occurred when the advancing AFL men reached a human wall of police standing between them and their rivals.

Blood flowed as police riot sticks bounced off the skulls of unionists who tried to rush the police wall. A steady, drizzling rain added to the confusion.

At least five union men were hurt in the scuffle which lasted about six minutes. Six unionists were arrested.

Queen Helps Birthday Celebration

ABOARD SS. GOTHIC (AP) (Reuters)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh brightened up a quiet day at sea Thursday by attending a shipboard birthday party for Vice-Admiral E. M. C. Abel Smith, who is in charge of the Royal vessel.

As the Royal luxury liner plowed on toward the Fiji Islands, the Royal couple joined the mid-day party in the ship's library to the tune of "Happy Birthday" from a Royal Marine band.

They admired a sailor doll which the admiral exhibited proudly. He received it as a birthday gift from Lady Pamela Mountbatten, the Queen's lady-in-waiting.

The escort cruiser Sheffield, paralleling the Gothic's course under the hot Pacific sun, ran up flags to signal birthday greetings.

The weather was the best since the liner entered the Pacific from the Panama Canal last Monday on the second lap of the Royal Commonwealth tour to Australia and New Zealand. The sun shone from cloudless skies on the blue ocean waters.

U.S. Asks Interview

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States sent a note to the Canadian government Thursday asking it to arrange for the Senate internal security subcommittee to question Igor Gouzenko.

The message asked that Senator William Jenner (Rep., Ind) and subcommittee counsel Robert Morris be allowed to quiz Gouzenko in Canada. Jenner is the subcommittee chairman.

Dulles' note, the third in this exchange with Canada, said that Jenner's group would abide by Canada's decision about what could or could not be published from Gouzenko's testimony.

Canadian Troops in Germany Not as Bad as Reported, Padre Says

The story of the Canadian 27th Brigade morale problem in Germany last year has only been half told, according to Capt. J. A. Davidson, former padre of the First Canadian Highland Battalion.

Home on leave after a year's service at Chatham Barracks, Hannover, Padre Davidson admitted things had been "pretty rough," but said it was not all bad.

He said only about 20 per cent of the troops caused trouble. They were mostly young lads who were looking for adventure and were just plain bored, he said.

"The large majority were a credit to the army and to their country," the padre said.

Much of the trouble, he said, was a "gang of young lads who were away from the restraints of their homes and thrown into an atmosphere of moral squalor."

"It takes more guts to live a decent life in post-war Europe than in post-war Canada," he said.

Voluntary church attendance, he said, was from 10 to 30 per cent of the troops at Chatham Barracks.

"Do 10 per cent of the young men in Victoria between 18 and 30 go to church on Sundays?" he asked.

Padre Davidson said Christmas, 1952, was one of the worst periods for trouble in his particular area.

"It was the roughest Christmas I ever had and I spent Christmas, 1944, in the line as a combat soldier," he said.

But while the foolish drinking and horseplay was going on, he said, he saw the best voluntary attendance at church that Christmas.

"One gang was singing Christmas carols in church while another gang was kicking the windows out of the wet canteen," he said.

CAPT. J. A. DAVIDSON

Padre Davidson drew considerable comment over an article he wrote for an army magazine in which he described the real troublemaker as "the damn fool drinker."

A United Church minister, he was ordained after the war. He studied for the ministry at St. Andrew's College, Saskatoon, under the DVA after serving four years overseas with the RCCS during the Second World War.

He is 34, married, and has three children. His family has been living in the married quarters at Work Point Barracks while he has been in Germany.

He will be posted to Petawawa as a garrison chaplain after completion of his leave here.

Lieut. S. J. Bichard, 1982 Haultain Street, who returned to Victoria last week from Germany, said morale of Canadian occupation troops is now at a high level.

Reports published a few months ago criticizing the behavior of Canadian troops in Germany showed only the bad side of things and ignored the good, he said. There are always a few men in every military unit who fail to behave properly, he added, but on the whole the Canadian soldier in Germany is well behaved and well liked.

Germany, according to Lieutenant Bichard, is making good progress with its reconstruction programs. When the Canadians arrived in Hannover there were no lights in the devastated city, he said. Today, however, the streets are as well lit as the streets of Victoria.

He paid high tribute to the energy and industry of the German people.

Lieutenant Bichard, who was in Germany last Christmas, is looking forward to spending this Christmas with his wife and 11-year-old daughter and four-year-old son.
